Curb Splurge Urge For Royalty—MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Alexis Caron, Liberal MP for Hull, Que., called on the government to watch expenses during Queen Elizabeth's visit to Canada next summer.

He did not suggest that the government skimp, but said Canadians might not accept "exaggerated expenses during a time of recession."

SALES TAX REVENUE SOARS TO RECORD $87,244,382

More Than $2,000,000 Higher Than 1957

Biggest single revenue producer for the provincial government during the last fiscal year was the five per cent social security sales tax which soared to a new record of $87,244,382, more than $2,000,000 higher than in 1957.

Motor fuel and fuel oil taxes realized $27,475,237.36, property taxes $6,463,390.95, and motor vehicle licences and permits brought in $14,685,519.08, according to Public Accounts released yesterday in the legislature.

$90,000,000 RECORD

On the expenditure side a new $90,000,000 record was set by the building and maintenance of highways, roads, bridges, ferries, docks and wharves.

Although centennial celebrations had hardly gotten under way by the end of the last fiscal year, March 31, 1958, $1,793,160.33 had already been expended on centennial celebrations.

GRANTS-IN-AID

Services and grants-in-aid for hospitals cost the government $38,214,433.63 and operation of mental hospitals another $12,625,947.30.

Parks, beaches and recreation area development cost $2,358,472.84. Police protection cost $1,512,799.32, and law enforcement another $1,449,567.46. Correction of juvenile delinquents cost $2,062,380.92 and of other offenders $6,028,716.95.

AID TO AGED

The provincial government spent $13,047,543.12 on aid to the aged and $8,806,032.49 on social assistance. Child welfare cost $2,295,737.40.

Some $43,000,000, an increase of nearly $4,000,000 over 1957, was paid in grants, aids and services for schools operated by local authorities and another $6,689,278 to universities, colleges and normal schools.

DEBT RETIREMENT

The government spent $30,332,000 on debt retirement and $11,020,303 on grants in aid of local government. Subsidy paid to the Toll Highways and Bridges Authority was $1,457,184, compared to $632,727 in 1957.

Total gross expenditure was $351,302,764.34 and gross revenue was $322,434,348, with money from the current account, revenue surplus account and capital account being used to make up the balance.

Ceremony Goes On, Rain or Not

$2,000,000 More Spent By Drinkers in B.C.

British Columbians drank $2,000,000 more liquor last year than they did in 1957.

Sale of liquor in B.C. for fiscal year ending March 31, 1958, brought $26,838,507.41 to the province's consolidated revenue fund, public accounts showed yesterday.

It was up nearly $2,000,000 from 1957 when revenue was $25,048,630.26.

Gross liquor sales to the public amounted to $66,832,135.95 and to licensees, $26,257,969.48, for a total of $93,090,105.43.

Shuffle to Split Health Branch

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A reorganization of the provincial department of health and welfare and mental health services was called for in the Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at yesterday's legislature opening.

The move, first predicted in The Daily Colonist Jan. 1, calls for a new department of health services and hospital insurance to combine services now rendered by mental health services under the provincial secretary with the health branch and hospital insurance service now under the health and welfare department.

The welfare branch will now become a separate department.

NEW MINISTER

It can be assumed that this will call for a new cabinet minister, with Eric Martin continuing as health branch and hospital insurance minister and the new minister directing the new welfare department.

Thought to be a possible candidate for the new minister's post is Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt), who is the Social Credit caucus leader, convention chairman and sparkplug of political campaigns for the Socreds.

The throne speech said definitely that a start will be made this year on Victoria's new courthouse. The Colonist said Jan. 1 that the long-awaited $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 courthouse would be started in October as a winter work program, but completion will not be until 1960.

Yesterday's throne speech, which was actually written by Premier Bennett and outlines

CBC Ultimatum:

Back to Work Or Be Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — The publicly-owned CBC Thursday gave roughly 1,200 of its Montreal employees supporting the television producers' strike the choice of returning to work or losing their jobs.

The ultimatum was contained in letters sent to all staff members who have not reported for work since the Montreal producers walked off their jobs Dec. 29 to back demands for recognition of their newly-formed Association des Realisateurs (CCL) as bargaining agent.

Corporation officials told a press conference late Thursday the CBC will start hiring personnel to fill vacancies created by those who do not return to work.

The corporation also said it will refuse to have any further dealings with the producers' association in its efforts to restore normal television broadcasting services in Montreal.

Can't Get Both

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday told labor that it "can't have it both ways." Delegates of the Canadian Labor Congress had asked him for increased government social security measures and reduced taxes at the same time.

Lipstick Tax 'Unfair'

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the three women members of the Commons today urged removal of the 10 per cent federal excise tax on lipstick, shaving cream, toothpaste, baby oils and other cosmetics.

"Lipstick is not a luxury," said Margaret Aitken (P.C., York-Humber) in the Commons throne speech debate. "Half the electors of this country agree with me."

She described the tax on cosmetics as "discriminatory," "unfair" and "incongruous." The excise tax had been removed a few years ago from such items as fishing rods, cameras and soft drinks.

Red Defector Hands Over List of Spies

BONN (Reuters) — The deputy chief of East Germany's espionage system who fled to the West said Thursday he has handed over to authorities here a list of Communist espionage agents operating throughout Europe.

Lt.-Col. Siegfried Dombrowski, 42, told a press conference that East Germany employs about 60,000 espionage agents—20 per cent of them active in Western Europe.

Another Baby Kidnapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — A woman volunteering to act as a baby-sitter for a 23-day-old boy kidnapped him after sending the infant's mother on a wild goose chase for an apartment, police reported last night.

It was the big city's second infant kidnapping this month.

Police were seeking Gladys Garcia, who met Mrs. Dora Liza Tavarez Thursday afternoon at the Metropolitan Hospital clinic.

Mrs. Tavarez, who had gone to the clinic for post-natal care, said the woman she had just met told her that she was expecting a child and that "she loved children."

Mrs. Tavarez, 31, offered the woman a ride to her apartment in a taxi. There, the Garcia woman commented on how small the Tavarez apartment was and said she knew of a larger apartment available in the Bronx.

She offered to care for the baby while the mother went to see it.

Mrs. Tavarez discovered that the address she had been given was that of a post office.

The mother hurried home, arriving there about 4 p.m. Both the woman and her son were missing.

The woman and her neighbors searched the neighborhood for hours before reporting to police shortly after 10 p.m. After still another search, police turned in a kidnapping alarm.

Detectives were checking hospital records for a lead to the Garcia woman. Their task was complicated by the fact that the clinic listed 10 Garcia women undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Tavarez had been in this country about two years, arriving here from the Dominican Republic.

Reds Lack The Big One

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Thursday that Russia does not have an intercontinental ballistic missile it could fire against the United States.

Final Weapon Study Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clinton P. Anderson called Thursday for high-priority study of weather control. He called it "the ultimate weapon" which could be used to "bring the United States to her knees."

Fishboat Turns Away From Drowning Woman

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman was drowned before help could reach her in West Bay Thursday.

Dead is Mrs. Dorothy Wyndham, 66.

R. H. Ferguson said he hailed a passing fishboat after he spotted Mrs. Wyndham about 50 yards offshore, swimming and calling for help. He said the fishboat veered in toward shore, then turned and sped away.

Here's Where New Breakwater Will Rise This Year

Happy news for both owners of small boats and Oak Bay came with Ottawa announcement last night that $200,000 will be spent this year on Turkey Head breakwater, to extend most of way between Oak Bay seashore and Mary Tod Island. Breakwater has long been sought as shelter for small craft using Oak Bay Boathouse. "This is a great thing for small boat owners," said Reeve George Murdoch, "and also for our seawall which gets knocked around in those southeast gales. The government has been very generous." ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SAFETY belts in cars would save 70 per cent of the lives that are lost in highway accidents, says Bruce Passmore, Victoria automobile dealer and former racing driver.

He thinks that safety belts in cars ought to be compulsory by law.

It isn't because he wants to sell safety belts, he insists. He doesn't mind where people buy their belts, as long as they buy them.

Research by Ford Motor Co. showed conclusively that safety belts saved many lives. Now belts are optional equipment in all Ford cars. But the public is indifferent to them.

As Mr. Passmore sees it, the safety belt is a lifesaver in two ways:

1. If you go into a dangerous skid or take a sharp turn, the belt holds you in place, stops you from being thrown away from the steering wheel and losing control.

2. If you do crash, belts prevent you from being thrown forward. They reduce the chance of injury.

With the type of belt that goes around your mid-section, your head and shoulders still might slump forward when a car comes to a sudden stop. But your chances of being hurt are far less than if you were rattling around loose in the car.

The most effective kind of safety belt, says Mr. Passmore, is the shoulder harness. But any competently made safety belt is good. Many garages will install belts for $5 upward.

Mr. Passmore went to the provincial government and tried to persuade them to equip provincial cars with safety belts. Six months later, the government decided to do it. Mr. Passmore put in a bid for supplying the belts.

The government rejected his bid; bought its belts for 10 cents each cheaper from an Ontario firm. But Mr. Passmore isn't complaining. He says he was glad to see the belts go in, regardless of who sold them.

Naturally he uses a belt in his own car. He has just acquired a new car, and is having a belt put in it.

He normally doesn't fasten the belt when he is jogging around town; only secures it when he takes to the highway.

The young Passmores, Roy, 13, and Fawn, 9, enjoy wearing belts. It makes them feel as if they are in a racing car or a plane.

"It's more or less a game with them," says Bruce Passmore, safety belt plugger.

Fred Usher, leader of Victoria's popular Western-style group, the Hometowners, has no fear of the number 13.

January 31 is the Hometowners' 13th anniversary. The five original members of the combination: Fred, Geoff Venables, Ernie Fullerton, Bob McGill and Bill Botten, have been together all that time.

The only recent addition is their present pianist and organist, Jack Lenaghan.

They had three consecutive years broadcasting across Canada from Victoria on the Dominion network of the CBC. They're off the air just now, but they hope to sign for another term soon.

They often give their services to entertain patients at Veterans' Hospital and inmates of the Wilkinson Road home.

A hen blue grouse fell in love with a Pacific Great Eastern Railway locomotive last April, game biologist Lawson Sugden of Williams Lake reports in the current number of "Wildlife Review," the magazine of the British Columbia fish and game branch.

"The bird was seen following the engine about for four days, travelling from one end of town to the other.

"Trainmen believe the grouse was wooed by the throbbing of the air compressor on the engine which could possibly sound—to a lovelorn hen grouse—like the hooting of a male bird.

"She finally became discouraged by the lack of response . . . from the engine and went elsewhere in search of . . . courtship."

From Cultus Lake, near Chilliwack, former fisheries officer Frank Pells reports that the swallows return to Cultus Lake on the same day each spring, just as they return to Capistrano in California.

"Swallow day" at Cultus Lake is April 22.

15,000 Jeer Prisoner

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—A crowd of more than 15,000 Cubans whistled, jeered and hooted at the first ex-army officer brought into Havana's sports stadium late Friday for public trial on war-crimes charges.

Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, former military commander at Holguin, Oriente province is accused of [illegible] homicide and robbery.

In conformity with Cuban legal procedure, Sosa Blanco was not asked to plead guilty or innocent. But when he was asked to address the tribunal he denounced the charges as "all lies."

The crowd jeered.

Then Sosa Blanco, saying the crowd did not want to hear him, suddenly shouted: "I am in the Roman coliseum!"

Sosa Blanco told the tribunal he merely carried out the orders of his military superiors in war. "I do not ask for clemency," he cried. "I am a man of honor."

He said the rebels also had killed [illegible] and if the killings on both sides constituted crimes "then I am a criminal."

Reading off the charges was interrupted frequently by roars from the crowd.

Defence counsel challenged the tribunal's authority to try Sosa Blanco in Havana because the charges were based on alleged acts in Oriente province but the tribunal overruled that contention and the crowd shouted its approval.

Castro announced just before the trial opened that he favors a quick windup of the trials and executions, though he is seeking to prove to the world that they are just. He said they will be ended "as soon as possible and the sooner the better."

Proudest Highway Crumbles

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's only super-highway, an 8½-mile stretch which took 2½ years to build, has crumbled in 2½ weeks of freezing weather and thaw.

The four-lane expressway's surface is covered with bubbles, ridges, cracks and eruptions.

The $10,500,000 road was opened in a blaze of publicity by Prime Minister Macmillan.

Today the Preston By-pass, the modest begining of a modern network of roads which successive British governments have been promising since before the war, was being dubbed a "fiasco."

Paddle Unruly Pupils

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Brooklyn grand jury yesterday called for legislation which would permit New York's violence-harassed school teachers to paddle unruly students.

The jury, impanelled in November, 1957, after a wave of juvenile delinquency including rape, arson, murder and destruction of property, swept the city's schools, told Judge Samuel Leibowitz that conditions would get worse, not better, if teachers were refused control over their students.

Judge Leibowitz agreed, but the school board turned thumbs down on the plan.

The board said it took the position that teachers had to spare the rod because only the parents had the right to decide whether a child should be spanked.

City Fortunate, Says Mayor

Water Rates to Rise 'To Pay Rebuilding

Water will cost more in Greater Victoria fairly soon, Mayor Percy Scurrah forecast yesterday, but "not an excessive amount."

The mayor, chairman of the Greater Victoria water board, made the prediction in the course of a luncheon address on municipal affairs to the Rotary Club. He spoke similarly Wednesday to the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association.

Victoria was fortunate in comparison with many municipalities, he said, because "we had many of our services installed years ago whereas many other cities have had to provide them during the past 10 years."

But Victoria wasn't entirely free of the problem because "during the next five or six years it is going to be necessary for the people of this area to spend something in excess of $10,000,000 for the renewal and rebuilding of our Sooke Lake waterworks system."

Mayor Scurrah said the increase in cost of water to each householder, "when the work commences," was estimated at $1 a month.

Opening of Legislature — Handful of Spectators

Steady Rain Soaks Ceremony

Only a handful of spectators, a few seagulls and the military braved a steady rain which marred outdoor ceremonies accompanying opening of the third session of British Columbia's 25th Legislature.

The seagulls left sooner—at the booming sound of the first round of a 15-gun salute.

The spectators stayed a few minutes longer, until Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross entered the legislature buildings, on his way to read the Throne Speech.

The color guard of 100 RCAF men, plus band and officers, stayed on to the bitter end. So did the detachment of the 5th Medium Battery, RCA, which fired the ceremonial salute.

When the lieutenant-governor arrived for the official opening of the House the RCAF color was paraded for the first time at a legislature opening.

The color party carried the Queen's color of the RCAF as well as the air force color. These colors are kept at 5 Air Division Headquarters, Vancouver, and are only used for ceremonial occasions.

The lieutenant-governor took the salute standing on the rainswept steps of the main entrance to the legislature.

Less than 100 yards away six-pounders slammed off the 15-gun salute. Thick acrid smoke drifted over the scene.

The colors, and most of the few spectators who turned out were considerably wilted by the rain when Lieutenant-Governor Ross arrived, wearing a cloak over his court dress.

Ignoring the rain, the lieutenant-governor inspected the full guard and then went over to salute and speak to the band.

The crowd, estimated at well under 200, stood huddled under umbrellas and raincoats. It dispersed rapidly as soon as the official party entered the buildings.

To keep warm at their post, while ceremonies went on inside the chamber, the guard of honor marked time on the spot and the band played cheerful music. The rain never let up.

At one time during the long wait there was a ripple of laughter down the ranks as a boy on a delivery bike pedalled down the front rank and cut loose with an admiring whistle.

Then—one final salute and the official cars with motorcycle escorts pulled away.

Flt. Lt. Allan Robinson of North Vancouver, personnel administration officer at Comox, was guard commander, with FO Robert Burnie, a guard officer.

The Queen's color officer was Flt. Lt. Hugh Hamilton, and the RCAF color officer was FO Raymond Chapman.

Capt. T. G. Dalzell commanded the 5th Medium Battery.

★ ★ ★

Soaked but far from bedraggled are these smartly turned-out members of the RCAF guard of honor at yesterday's opening of third session of B.C.'s 25th Legislature. They stood in rain for more than an hour. Honor guard and band came from Comox.

Reorganization to Split Health, Welfare Branches

his government program, would indicate a light session as Premier Bennett predicts, but opposition members have other ideas and have already been noticed honing up on the McPhee Tree Fruits Report, the Semmers case and Wenner-Gren development.

But the surprising part of the speech was that no mention was made of labor legislation, and for months now Premier Bennett has been devoting major portions of his speeches to the fact the B.C. government will not be pushed around by labor or management. At least half a dozen organizations have presented briefs to cabinet asking for labor legislation changes.

DEEPLY CONCERNED

But the Throne Speech did say the government is deeply concerned with unemployment and that despite an accelerated program and a huge and unprecedented expenditure of public funds on government buildings, works, highways, bridges, park development and other programs, the unemployment problem remains serious.

It said the government will recommend that the select standing committee on labor be reconvened immediately for the purpose of studying the problem.

The Throne Speech said "It is desirable that this committee meet with all interested individuals and groups—labor, employers and others — and conduct an inquiry into the ways and means of improving the situation."

Out of these meetings new labor legislation may be developed and new proposals to alleviate unemployment.

Legislation will be introduced to expand provisions for the education and training of mentally retarded children.

INCREASED GRANTS

Authorization will be asked for increased grants to school districts as well as to the University of British Columbia and Victoria College.

An expanded system of loans, scholarships, and bursaries will be made available to facilitate achievement of higher standards of education by students of senior matriculation standing at Victoria College and UBC.

Still not yet recovered from last year's disastrous forest fires, which cost the government $4,000,000 in fire-fighting costs and industry another $1,000,000, it is intended to submit new legislation respecting compulsory utilization, with compensation, of machinery and equipment suitable for forest fire suppression.

Legislation will be introduced to create Douglas Day, first celebrated last year on Nov. 19, as an annual day of observance.

Other Throne Speech highlights:

1. Legislation will be introduced to establish a horse racing commission.

2. Provision will be made for additional B.C. supreme court judges. Attorney-General Bonner had earlier said he will ask for two more judges, raising the total from 12 to 14.

3. A new Wills Act, of interest to every citizen of B.C., will be introduced.

4. It is proposed to increase substantially the amount of credit that may be extended under the Farmers' Land Clearance Assistance Act and to lengthen considerably the period of repayment.

5. A consolidation of legislation relating to dyking and drainage will be submitted.

6. Needs of the province for advanced technical training programs are now being surveyed.

7. The Ferries Act will be brought to the floor of the House to discuss subsidies.

8. The Forest Act will be brought in line with other legislation.

9. Amendments of mining legislation will be proposed to recognize scientific advances in the field of exploration and to encourage exploration.

10. Benefits of poliomyelitis immunization will be expanded during this year.

One New Building Every Five Weeks

During the last three years a new major public building has been completed by the provincial government at the rate of one every five weeks, Lieutenant Governor Frank Ross said in his Speech from the Throne yesterday.

His 40th Session

Dean of the legislature, 84-year-old Thomas Uphill, Fernie MLA, started his 40th session of the legislature yesterday with a little clowning before the lieutenant-governor arrived for official opening ceremonies. The independent labor member sat down in the premier's chair, trying it out for size as he has been doing at House openings for years.

Premier Enters Alone

Premier Bennett made his grand entrance into the legislative assembly alone yesterday. He appeared slightly nervous as he walked down the aisle, smiling, and stopped only to shake hands with Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF, Grand Forks), one of the two women members.

Mrs. Haggen had a vase of flowers placed on her desk, but the other woman member Mrs. Buda Brown (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey) didn't even have a desk. She sat in the second row of chairs.

Except for the front row, desks usually used by MLAs had been removed so more chairs could be used for guests.

Speech from Throne

Pomp and Dignity Opening Keynote

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross took 30 minutes to read the Speech from the Throne at the opening yesterday of the third session of the 25th Legislature.

His Honor entered the legislative chamber with all the traditional pomp and ceremony that goes with the House opening. His aide-de-camps, marching in pairs and including Brig. John Adam, Lt.-Cmdr. J. C. Davie, Wing Cmdr. J. D. D. Campbell and RCMP Inspector T. A. Horn, entered the hushed chamber first, followed in single file by Government House secretary Cmdr. Garfield Dixon and sergeant-at-arms Denzil Ashby carrying the mace. His Honor mounted the dais as his aides stepped to each side.

SAME DIGNITY

Then he read the Throne Speech and left the chamber with the same dignity.

There were close to 600 persons in the legislative chamber to see the official opening.

Before the lieutenant-governor entered, Donald L. Brothers, recently elected Socred member for Rossland-Trail, was introduced to the legislative assembly and took his seat in the House as MLAs from both sides of the floor thumped their desks.

RANG THREE TIMES

Then the division bell rang three times to signal the lieutenant-governor was approaching.

After he left, the House got down to some minor business before adjourning until 3 p.m. today.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Works Minister W. N. Chant, I. F. Corbett (SC, Yale), opposition leader Robert Strachan, and Archie Gibbs (Lib., Oak Bay), were named to a committee to name select standing committees.

Alex Matthew (SC, Vancouver Centre) was elected deputy speaker.

Attorney-General Bonner introduced Bill No. 1, "An Act to amend the Interpretation Act."

About 15 annual reports were tabled.

$142,729,384

Millions More Borrowed

An increase of $143,729,348.40 in contingent liabilities (government guaranteed borrowings) was noted in Public Accounts brought down by Premier Bennett at the Legislature yesterday.

They increased from $241,334,638.58 in 1957 to $385,163,986.98 in 1958.

MORE THAN $100,000,000

The previous year contingent liabilities increased by more than $100,000,000.

The dolphin makes a good symbol for Grant's unusual, triangular bottle. Yachtsmen tell us it "travels" perfectly. The triangular shape stows so conveniently, and the whisky itself is particularly pleasing to men of good taste.

Progress, with Caution

IN spite of its prolixity in seven typescript pages and some 3,600 words, the Speech read by His Honor at the opening of the B.C. Legislature contained a guarded outline of the program of the Social Credit administration for the coming fiscal year. In the light of the economic conditions of the times, the decision seems to be to go ahead with caution on pressing matters, and in some part to await the developments of the year before undertaking extensive commitments in any direction.

Thus, the Department of Health and Welfare, too large now for proper administration, is to be split in two, with the possible addition of one cabinet minister.

Additional provincial grants are to be given to B.C. school districts, to Victoria College, and to the University of British Columbia. Victoria City is promised its new courthouse, on the cabinet's honor, with construction unequivocally to start this year. The government will name a standing committee of the House to deal with unemployment.

Applying more generally throughout the province, additional judges are to be named to the Supreme Court, as urged by both bench and bar. Land clearing is to be facilitated in connection with settlement farms. Logging machinery may be co-opted to fight forest fires in emergencies. The administration proposes the creation of a horse-racing commission. "Douglas Day" is to be established on Nov. 19 annually, as the last step of the highly successful Centennial Year.

There is no hint in the Speech of altered taxation, nor of any crucial change in the present forms of revenue collection. An important paragraph pledges extension of education and training for mentally retarded children, a move that has long been popularly urged. For the rest, the administration's pronouncement indulged in what amounts to a stage by stage recital of the unusual events of the Centennial Year. It notes, with pleasure, that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be the first official guests to be received at the new Government House after it is completed this year.

After three years of deferred action, and many on and off the cuff promises, it will be a pleasure to Victoria citizens to read the reference to the courthouse. It states, and we quote: "Construction of a new courthouse in the capital city of this Province will be commenced this year." That is for the record.

Searchlight on Education

WHEN the provincial royal commission on the public school curriculum convened in Victoria yesterday its three members found no dearth of material for study. About a score of briefs had been compiled for presentation by individuals and diverse organizations, through which the Chant commission will have a cross-section view of public opinion on the quality of what is taught and how it is taught at elementary and high school levels.

Not only in British Columbia but throughout Canada (Alberta has had a similar commission at work for several months) the public school curriculum is one of the most controversial topics of the day. From time immemorial it has been customary for people to find fault with the upbringing of children in general and with the schools in particular. Since the adoption of courses and methods of instruction supposed to make education both attractive and easy the volume of complaint has had more voices added to it, to include the universities, the professions, industry and business, the trades, municipal councils and even in some instances the police. Added to this is the angry outcry of taxpayers who feel that the product of the modern education system is not worth the enormous cost.

The system may or may not be as bad as it is portrayed, but obviously there are things seriously wrong with it. The job of the Chant commission is to find out what they are and how they might be corrected. Because of the vital importance of this investigation not only to the students and the home but also to the whole economic structure of the province and the country, it is heartening to see the active interest which is being taken in the commission's hearings.

The curriculum is the sole responsibility of the provincial department, and the government has rendered British Columbia good service in submitting this issue to the scrutiny of independent experts. The commission in turn has manifested zeal for facts and opinions suggesting that the investigation when completed will have overlooked nothing that might be relevant to its findings.

Spoiling Craigdarroch

IT would be a mistake to erect an overflow building in the grounds of Craigdarroch Castle. For one thing the school board is not likely to keep its offices there indefinitely, since the castle is not well suited to this purpose anyway and it is rather out of the way for easy approach. Erection of a $75,000 adjunct would be a waste of money that can ill be spared, and the structure would have to be torn down again when the board moved. Events are moving slowly but inevitably towards the creation of a civic centre of some sort offering full administrative facilities, and the school board would be wise to make some other temporary adjustment in the meantime.

More importantly the castle area should not be spoiled for what could be its future appropriate use. Craigdarroch is one of the few buildings extant that genuinely connect with the early history of Victoria, and it is admirably suited for transformation into a civic museum. That might come about unless the chance is lost. The city is short of authentic tourist attractions, and even now the castle is a landmark that arrests attention and arouses the interest of visitors. That interest would be tripled were it furbished as a show piece containing relics and items of historical value. The city has the power to prevent the spoilation of Craigdarroch; it should use it.

Visit's Result Awaited

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government may take months to appraise what Anastas Mikoyan did to the United States. It hopes to know in about two weeks what the United States did to Mikoyan.

The Russian deputy premier left Washington Tuesday on his trip back to Moscow. Ostensibly, he was on a holiday and wanted to see what changes had taken place since his last U.S. visit two decades ago.

At the state department one hears most frequently a guess about Mikoyan's main purpose. As one U.S. official summed it up, he wanted "to take our temperature on Berlin."

* * *

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles are hopeful that Mikoyan will try to impress on Premier Nikita Khrushchev that the United States is determined not to back down over Berlin. They hope Mikoyan was convinced that if Russia and East Germany press the issue of Western withdrawal too far they will have an extremely dangerous situation on their hands.

The impact made on Moscow by Mikoyan's travels and observations may become clear first of all.

The Soviet Communist party's 21st congress is due to begin Jan. 27. Mikoyan is expected to make a major speech.

It most likely will reflect his views about the United States and relate much that he saw here. Also, what Khrushchev tells the congress may well show whether Mikoyan's report had any effect on Berlin policy.

* * *

Beyond this, the tone of the whole congress should provide evidence as to whether the Soviet government is prepared to follow up Mikoyan's goodwill tour with specific new proposals for improving relations.

Khrushchev needs large quantities of machinery to build up his plastics and chemical industries. He would like to get much of this machinery from the United States. That was undoubtedly a factor in Mikoyan's constant demand for expanded U.S.-Soviet trade.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE is some comfort in being an old soldier instead of a new one; at least the former could fire his last bullet at the enemy and then go home without fear of aftermath.

The latter may not, in future.

This deduction at least might be drawn from the legal status of weapons in war. The United States field manual assures its soldiers that the use of nuclear weapons is okay, all serene and aboveboard, whereas the British soldier hasn't any such clear guide. His manual refers him evasively from one section of international law to another.

How the Canadian manual rules on this fine point of wartime ethics I don't know.

I fancy that in the front line all three will do as they're told and pull the trigger or release the warhead, as the case may be. When the enemy's coming at you there's no time for argument about the niceties of weapons, none of which, anyway, are really what you'd call nice.

* * *

It's the aftermath that's the bother, though. If in future a soldier happens to be on the losing side he's apt to be hauled up by the victor, none too gently either, and indicted for using an improper weapon.

A lot will depend, you see, on the viewpoint of the victor. He might not agree that use of the warhead was legitimate practice. A soldier therefore becomes a potential object of enemy war crimes trials.

This is the result of Nuremberg, which as some far-seeing folk pointed out at the time, could be a boomerang. Probably all the accused there got what was coming to them, nevertheless new international law was created and back-dated.

That, naturally, was a risky precedent, and already we have Dr. Castro excusing his executions by citing the example of Nuremberg.

It had never before been an international offence for commanders-in-chief or military staffs or industrial barons, for instance, to promote national aggrandisement, or even plot a war. National leaders had been doing that for centuries, including those of the judges at Nuremberg, although perhaps not so nasty-like in their case.

* * *

But you see what a poser this is for the next war. It's not everyone that will be able to hedge his bets, as it were, like Alfred Krupp. He's said to be buying into Canadian industry, so presumably in the event of any future war between Canada and Germany he can't lose. He'll be on both sides, industrially, and so in the clear.

Not so, however, the poor soldier. There's no telling where the gamut of "war crimes" trials could end; it might run down all the way to the newest private, who, under the eagle eye of his sergeant, fired a warhead.

There must be something in this, too, else a military manual wouldn't go out of its way to assure soldiers their weapons were ethically beyond reproach.

It's a dilemma for the trooper, all right. If he doesn't obey and let go the warhead he'll be on the spot for mutiny in face of the enemy; perhaps shot for his scruples. If he lets it go and the enemy wins he runs the risk of being on the spot for obeying orders; perhaps shot for not having scruples.

Ah well, there's a consoling thought for the soldier. If as they say one fired nuclear warhead will usher in a nuclear war and there will be nobody left when it's all over, obviously there will be no war crimes trials.

Malta Situation Clumsily Handled

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

NO one in Britain is very happy about Mr. Lennox Boyd's handling of Malta. It would seem that even the Colonial Office has its reservations, yet no one seems to be able to suggest a practicable alternative. The main trouble seems to be that Mr. Lennox Boyd insists on handling Malta as a business proposition, and most people would be happier if there was a little less business and a little more humanity.

Mr. Dom Mintoff is a difficult customer to deal with—how difficult may be gathered from the fact that a year or so ago he was campaigning for integration with the United Kingdom and today he is demanding independence. He sees in Mr. Lennox Boyd a modern manifestation of the Victorian colonial secretary, the austere father who believes in the rod rather than in explaining adult behavior to children.

* * *

In fact, of course, both Mr. Mintoff and Mr. Lennox Boyd are rather old-fashioned. Mr. Mintoff cannot believe that Malta is no longer of vital strategic importance in the atomic age, and Mr. Lennox Boyd cannot understand the idea that a handful of people on a speck of earth in the Mediterranean can really be serious about their place in the world. There is an element of irresponsibility on both sides, and even the most ardent supporters of the government are afraid that too much sticking to guns and principles may turn Malta into another Cyprus.

The Colonial Office poo-poohs the idea. The Maltese are charming people. Mr. Mintoff may be an extremist but even he does not believe in violence. It is true that things are difficult in Malta but mother knows best. What the Colonial Office does not even yet seem to realize is that awkward situations have a habit of getting out of hand.

Mr. Mintoff is quite definitely an advocate of passive resistance, but some of his henchmen may not be. Then the time comes when he has to decide if he supports the violence of extremist supporters or the British government, and in such circumstances it may well happen that the supporters of whom he disapproves will get support in preference to the government of which he disapproves still more.

* * *

And Malta more than any other colony deserves special consideration. It did not get its George Cross for nothing. We can afford to be a little sentimental about it and many people feel that we should have leaned over backwards rather than allow the impossible situation to arise which has now arisen. Whatever Mr. Boyd may argue we have in fact imposed outside authority on the island against the wishes of the majority of the people. We have handled the closing of the Malta dockyard very clumsily. We announced its closing—with all the consequent fears and apprehension in Malta—before we announced the efforts to replace it with a civilian dockyard to make good the lost employment. It was psychologically the wrong way to go about it. There would have been nothing unreasonable in the Admiralty guaranteeing employment until the civilian firm had taken over.

It would not perhaps have been strict business. It might have cost the British taxpayer a few shillings a head, but it would have earned the goodwill of the Maltese. After all it was a British dockyard, and the change could have been effected gradually and almost imperceptibly, but for some reason the government decided to use a sledge hammer and start off on the wrong foot by what one Maltese told me they regard as a "conditioning process"—the creation of a fear which would make subsequent efforts appear to be kind and generous.

There is no disguising the fact that Britain gave Malta a decided shock by announcing the closure of the dockyard with a generalized promise to do what they could about it.

Malta deserved better than that. Many people here believe that she deserved what she asked for—integration with Britain — which the government refused largely on the grounds that it would cost quite a deal to give them all the benefits of the welfare state and that presence of a couple of Maltese members in the parliament of Westminster could be a trifle embarrassing.

* * *

There is more than a suspicion that the real problem which integration would not have solved was Mr. Mintoff himself. It is suggested that if Mr. Mintoff would get out of Maltese politics a solution would soon be found. There is probably an element of truth in this. No one likes a person who parades his virtues or puts a cash value on suffering—but equally no one likes a person who seemingly overlooks special circumstances. Malta cannot eat its George Cross.

And very few people in Britain approve what is now happening in Malta — the suppression of newspapers, the imprisonment of editors and the institution of one-man government. The governor is no doubt an estimable gentleman but he can make mistakes. The editor concerned may well have deserved his sentence of imprisonment but the fact remains that many people interpret it as an act of oppression and many quite balanced people prefer dangerously irresponsible expressions of opinion to dictatorship.

Mr. Lennox Boyd's administration of the Colonial Office has not been distinctive or imaginative. It is obvious that everything he thinks about Mr. Mintoff is reciprocated by the former Maltese premier. In such circumstances it would be better if Mr. Macmillan appointed an independent arbiter or better still a Commonwealth commission. If an independent Briton, Canadian and Australian got together to solve the Malta problem it could be done. There is still a strong element of goodwill on both sides and the time for the commission is before that element is dissipated by high-handed actions from Whitehall too often hidebound by Victorian precedents, or by irresponsibility in Malta encouraged by subversive elements who specialize in making trouble worse confounded.

Canadian Welfarism

What Can We Afford?

(From The Financial Times)

CANADIANS have, in the proud boast of their political representatives, one of the most comprehensive state welfare programs in the world. Close to half of the federal budget is committed to this objective. Because so much of welfarism is universal — one need only have children to have a family allowance, need only be 70 years to have the old-age pension — its cost must continue to rise as the population increases.

The general assumption is that increased costs of welfarism rising from increased population are supported by the increased potential for tax revenues. Growth, in other words, will be self-supporting. In practice, of course, it does not work out that way—not, at least, in times of recession. Welfare payments are still being made but the tax potential has been drastically reduced by a lower level of corporation earnings and by unemployment.

These considerations, however, beg the basic question inherent in the extent of welfarism in Canada — the question as to whether we can afford it. The question has been raised with varying degrees of concern ever since the family allowance, first of the transfer payments, was initiated at the end of the war.

It is a question that is particularly pertinent now in view of the prospects for another budget deficit of the same proportions as the current one.

About half the increase in disposable income in Canada of $1,300,000,000 is derived from welfare payments. It is coincidental that this contribution to disposable income should be so close to the forecast budget deficit. It is coincidental, too, that it should also be so close to the rise in personal savings on deposit in the chartered banks. But these coincidences do help emphasize the basic consideration: that fixed payment welfarism, in times of recession, contributes to the budget deficit while permitting increased personal savings by the recipients.

A country whose income is still as dependent upon the sale of raw and semi-processed resources as is Canada's has no business matching welfarism with more developed countries with superior rates of productivity. While the economy was expanding as fast as it was through the 1950s, this fact was obscured. Now, however, with expansion slowed, it has emerged in the form of continuing deficits with their attendant inflation.

In effect, Canadians are learning that they can afford to maintain welfarism only by inflating their currency.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THE top brass of the labor movement have lately been concerning themselves with scholarly reflection on the question of leisure. If the four-and-a-half-day week is soon to become the three-day week, and so on, what are people going to do with their spare time?

It is no laughing matter.

Our conception of leisure is largely formed by the lovely color pictures to be seen in the magazines and on travel posters showing vast throngs of happy and wealthy people disporting themselves on ocean beaches in the palm-fringed sunny south. Another form of leisure is portrayed in the figure of a happy man operating a buzz saw in his cellar while his wife sits admiring by. Fishing, or whizzing about in a pink boat with a blue outboard motor; camping amid stately mountains with a tent, a portable freezer, a portable TV and a portable propane stove; playing an organ which you can learn in six easy lessons; or just reclining, with a fat smile, in a hammock.

But I happen to be related to three or four members of the laboring class who have achieved the four-and-a-half-day week with handsome wages. And do you know what they do with their leisure?

They get sideline jobs.

Nothing more tiresome than leisure, after a few tries at it.

Letters to the Editor

Excessive Taxes

We, the members of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, Victoria branch, have no objection to the equalization act which has been passed by our present government. The valuation was set by the provincial assessor at 60 per cent of the value, as a means of getting a fair standard. This assessment equalization has been asked for on several occasions by the Victoria city council. We know taxes have to be levied and paid, so as to keep the services going in the municipality.

What we do object to is the increase in our property taxes, through an increase in the mill rate. When a municipal valuation has increased, without expenditure, then the mill rate should come down ,and taxes would be kept even and everyone be paying their fair share. It is the city council which sets the mill rate and levies the property tax.

Canadian Traditions

A brilliant, inspired and most penetrating statement was recently made in our federal House when Louis Fortin made his maiden speech. It was: "There is such a thing as Canadianism, but it will be maintained only so long as the various groups that make up Canada remain attached to their own traditions."

This observation in its wisdom, offers the essence of tolerance without which we are no longer Canadians. It challenges all of us to do more listening and learning, for all around us in Canada is the immigrant, who one day will be no less Canadian than we who have welcomed him to his new home. Most important is the stress placed upon individuality.

Foot in Mouth Again

I note in the Colonist of Jan. 21, that Mr. McPhillips has spoken again in Parliament and that he referred to Donald Gordon, the president of the CNR, as "this big pooh-bah down in Montreal."

Quite apart from the fact that I do not know the meaning of the word "pooh-bah" which I cannot find in my dictionary, I feel that it is most unbecoming for the Victoria member of Parliament to refer to one of Canada's greatest brains in that manner. I am afraid such an outburst relegates Mr. McPhillips to the position he has built up in Ottawa as being irresponsible, and as your newspaper very aptly put it some months ago, Mr. McPhillips puts his foot in his mouth every time he speaks.

Mr. McPhillips has every right to ask questions but by being childish he loses the respect not only of his own party members but of the people in general.

I would strongly recommend to Mr. McPhillips that when he wishes to be childish again he should pick someone of his own calibre for his remarks.

Accent on Canada

I have just listened to a discussion on a local radio station about whether or not we should change our national flag. Some of the people participating referred several times to the British Commonwealth. There is no British Commonwealth. There is a Commonwealth of Nations and a British Empire.

It seems to me a very ridiculous thing for people to voice their opinions in public when they know so little about the subject they are talking about.

May I inform them that Canada originated the British Commonwealth which is now the Commonwealth of Nations.

This doesn't have much to do with whether or not we should change our flag. I think we should have a flag symbolic of Canada alone. I can think of no other reason for having a flag.

Vancouver's Jobless To March on Victoria

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor leaders here plan a mass march by 600 to 700 persons on the provincial legislature next month to support demands for emergency measures to combat unemployment.

The move is the latest planned of many that have made unemployment a leading topic for discussion and dispute in British Columbia during recent weeks.

Today a mass meeting sponsored by the Vancouver Labor Council will discuss unemployment and Council President Lloyd Whalen says it will try to find means to "put pressure on governments until something is done."

The federal government's latest figures, to mid-December, show B.C. with 68,700 unemployed, a decrease of 7,500 from a year earlier, and 15,000 from the previous year.

The Feb. 2 march on Victoria is being organized by the B.C. Federation of Labor. In a brief to the government recently, the federation demanded that the unemployment situation be declared an emergency and the province take action to combat it including provision immediately of $5,000,000 in assistance.

Labor representatives seek extension of unemployment benefits to all unemployed so long as they are unemployed. They say many unemployed have exhausted their benefits. Labor also seeks public works programs by governments at all levels.

Integration Without Hitch

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Racial integration began smoothly and without incident Wednesday on Atlanta's buses and trolleys.

Through the evening rush hour the police department and Atlanta transit system said no trouble had been reported.

Negroes had been urged by their leaders to sit where they pleased, but Negro men were cautioned not to sit beside white women.

No Bid Made For New Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming said yesterday he is unaware of any application for a charter for establishment of a co-operative bank in Canada.

There is some talk among credit unions in favor of establishing such a bank to handle cheques drawn on credit union savings accounts.

The chartered banks have raised their charges for handling such cheques.

Two Robbed, Locked In Car Trunk

TORONTO (CP) — Two Power supermarket employees were robbed of a $7,000 payroll at gunpoint yesterday and then locked in the trunk of their car for nearly an hour before they forced their way out.

Fred Winter, 21, and Arthur Cuccia, 24, had just picked up the money at the Bank of Montreal branch on Toronto's western outskirts when an armed man approached.

Store officials said this was the last time the payroll was to have been brought from the bank in this manner.

Stock Prices Turn Easier Near Close

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market closed mixed in late profit-taking. Trading was active and final volume was 4,995,000 shares, just short of Wednesday's 5,086,000.

Among industrials three of the five most active issues lost. Every group had losers but banks and foods showed the best gains. Pipelines and refining oils were easier.

Among other industrials Great West Saddlery was up two at 34 and Imperial Tobacco added 1⅝ at 13⅝. BA Oil dipped ⅝ at 42½ while Abitibi and Steel Company of Canada each lost ½.

Losses of ⅝ each to Calgary and Edmonton, at 33¾, and Home Oil B, at 19, sent western oils down.

Higher Rates Feared

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks declined at closing time on profit-taking as the industrials neared the 600-level in their average and traders turned cautious on expectation of a rise in the federal reserve discount rate.

Several outstanding features stood out. Rome Cable at one time showed a gain of more than 8 points, most of which was held on news the company was affiliating with Alcoa. The latter declined more than 2 points.

Oil issues, strong most of the day, fell off from their highs as the close approached. Steels turned down. So did the motors and chemicals.

Special issues showed a range from a loss of more than 2 points to a gain of more than 2. Tobaccos, drugs, and electronics were strong at times but they too fell from their best levels. The leading steels turned down. Airlines rose to new highs and held part of advances that ranged to more than a point.

Coppers Weaken

VANCOUVER — The new B.C. Telephone rights sold at 1.60 after opening at 1.70. Other industrials were mixed. B.C. Power was again strong at $29¾, and Woodward's warrants were $10½. Okanagan Helicopters were 3.80, but the pipelines were off.

Mines drifted lower with Craigmont at 3.65, Cowichan at 98 cents, Bethlehem at $1 and Trojan at 22 cents.

Among oils Tidal was lower at 1.50.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP) — The stock market was irregular. The gilt-edged section was lower.

Greek and Japanese issues improved in the foreign bond market. Canadian issues were irregular on the stock exchange but U.S. dollar stocks were generally higher.

Oils improved. South African golds lost some of Wednesday's firm tone and coppers were lower on balance.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Active trade developed in oats and barley, with shippers and exporters picking up both grains.

Trade reports indicated substantial quantities of barley were sold for export, with the United Kingdom the top importer. American houses also made good purchases in oats. Prices for both grains were firm at the close.

Flax was less active than in recent sessions. Some support came from international houses but there were no reports of overseas business. Offerings were about in line with the demand, and prices were slightly lower.

Rye moved narrowly in thin commission house trade. Prices were steady.

Forecast for Budget:

Revenue Goes Up —Deficit Will, Too

OTTAWA (CP)—The budget Finance Minister Fleming will place before Parliament in a few months will be based on forecasts of rising federal revenue, arising from a sharp upswing in Canada's national production, informants said Thursday.

They said the indications now are that the Gross National Product—value of all goods and services produced—will climb by four or five per cent this year to a new high of some $33,700,000,000 from the final estimate of $32,100,000,000 for 1958.

Thus, without taking in the possibility of higher taxes, federal budgetary revenues for 1959-60 may run to about $5,000,000,000 compared with $4,700,000,000 for the current year.

However budgetary spending—not including outlays for old-age pensions—could run to some $5,600,000,000, up slightly from the $5,500,000,000 which likely will be the total for the present year ending next March 31.

On the basis of those estimates, informants said, the budgetary deficit for the current year could reach up to $800,000,000 and could still be a relatively high $600,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

A deficit of this latter size would make it difficult for the government to hold the line against expansion of the country's money supply.

RCAF Now Fighting To Save Transports

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF, now battling to retain fighter planes, Thursday was faced with the prospect of a big reduction in numbers of its transport aircraft.

Only two days after Prime Minister Diefenbaker had again indicated that the government is unlikely to purchase the supersonic Arrow jet interceptor for the RCAF, the air transport board Thursday "very strongly" urged the government to divest to Canadian commercial air carriers "a much greater portion" of transport work now being done by the air force.

Transport Minister Hees told the Commons this particular recommendation will require further careful examination.

The air transport board said it has been alleged that in many cases commercial carriers could perform the RCAF's transport duties at less cost to the government.

Oil Sands A-Blast Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to set off an atomic blast in the Athabaska oil sands of northern Alberta is being considered, Mines Minister Comtois told the Commons Thursday, but a report hasn't been made yet.

He was replying to Mervyn Hardie (L., Mackenzie River), who asked for a progress report on the proposal made by Richfield Oil Company to set off the blast in the portion of the sands under their lease.

The oil sands are reputed to be the world's biggest untapped oil reserve.

Nation's Best Air Cadets Honored Tonight in City

Canada's most efficient air cadets—the 140-strong in Victoria's No. 89 Air Cadet Squadron — will be honored tonight.

Top squadron among 800 across the country last year, the Victoria group will be awarded the RCAF Association proficiency trophy by Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, association president, at ceremonies at Work Point Barracks.

A parade, starting at 7.30 p.m. at the drill hall inside the Munro Street entrance, will precede inspection by the air marshal and presentation of the trophy, to take place in the radar building.

The award — accompanied by a scroll and a cash grant —is given yearly to the squadron which excels all others in training, community work, extra-curricular activities, administration and activity of the local sponsoring committee.

No. 89 Squadron, under Squadron Leader E. A. MacGowan, is sponsored by the Kinsmen Club here.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will be among provincial, civic, and municipal government representatives at the presentation.

Starr Tells Commons:

On Way Out of Slump

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr, replying to a Commons opposition charge of government inactivity in the face of unemployment, said Thursday Canada is well on the way out of the recession.

The accusation was made by Paul Martin (L., Essex East), who said the country faces "the most serious problem of unemployment that we have had since the dark days of 1930."

Their exchange during the Commons throne speech debate followed the minister's disclosure of figures indicating that unemployment was still on the rise early this month.

749,886 JOBLESS

He said that registration for jobs at the National Employment Service offices totalled 749,886 at Jan. 8. This was 46,485 less than the 796,371 registrations in January, 1958, but an increase of 176,649 from the 574,237 in the middle of last month.

In his speech afterwards, Mr. Starr stressed the 4.3 per cent decline from the level a year earlier, and said the NES figure at Dec. 24 was 2.2 per cent below the comparable week of 1957.

"These facts show that we are well on our way out of the recession," he said.

NET TOO LOW

Mr. Martin said the net figure of 749,886 at Jan. 8 was too low.

To that total should be added "possibly" another 50,000 who didn't register for jobs because they had exhausted unemployment insurance claims, plus another 50,000 fishermen not included in the list.

Mr. Starr replied that there were no more than 30,000 fishermen eligible for unemployment insurance. He said that Mr. Martin, in a forecast last July of this winter's unemployment, had overestimated December unemployment by 110,000.

'BUILD IT UP'

"He endeavored to build that up today so his prophecy would be a reality," the minister said.

There were these other Commons developments:

1. Opposition Leader Pearson appealed to the prime minister to intervene in the Montreal CBC producers strike. Mr. Diefenbaker turned over the question to Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament on broadcast matters, and he said the matter is "entirely in the hands of the management" of the publicly-owned corporation.

2. Trade Minister Churchill said no pressure appears to have been exerted from outside Canada to kill the sale of $1,000,000 worth of Canadian aluminum to Red China. Mr. Pearson had asked Thursday for such assurance.

Afraid to Say 'Boo' to a Goose

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill says Liberal Leader Pearson, when external affairs minister, was "afraid to say boo to a goose."

In the Commons Throne Speech debate Wednesday, Mr. Churchill said the former Liberal government had taken a "timorous attitude" toward the United States.

"In those years, he (Mr. Pearson) was tip-toeing through the tulips, afraid to say boo to a goose," the trade minister said.

Anthem Opposed By Sect

TRAIL (CP) — The Orthodox Doukhobor organization Thursday opposed the singing of a national anthem and recognition of an oath of allegiance in public schools in a brief to a royal commission on education here Thursday.

The brief said, "We bear allegiance only to God as we are his subjects.

"We wish to go on record as strongly objecting to the indoctrination in the schools of imperialism and militarism, or the glorification of war and war heroes in any phase of the education program."

Queen, Prince Philip First Mansion Guests

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be the first official guests at Government House when they visit Victoria in July, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross said in his Throne Speech yesterday.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

All-star teams may not mean too much but the Western Hockey League, which is usually the league to experiment with something new, could well pick up the method of selection now being used in the National Hockey League. There, selectors pick all-star teams in mid-season and again at the end of the season. Total points from the two votes decide the official all-star team for the season.

The system makes sense. It not only produces considerable extra hockey publicity but it is the fairest way, giving the fellow who plays well in the first half of the season a chance to compete with the fellow who puts on a spurt near the wire which influences those given the job of making selections.

In any event, the method of selection in the WHL this season leaves something to be desired. Selectors will have their ballots within two weeks so that they can do their voting well in advance of the second annual all-star game, to be played March 3 in Vancouver.

This season, players leading the poll at each position in the voting for the all-star game will be officially recognized as a member of the divisional all-star clubs. Inasmuch as many, if not all, of the votes will be cast at least six weeks before the end of the season it increases the chances of a deserving player not winning the recognition he earned with outstanding play in the latter part of the season. And while fans may not be too interested in the make-up of an all-star club, selection is a great honor and, more to the point, a fine argument when contract times comes around for the player.

* * *

Now that the subject has been brought up, a Western Division all-star ballot poses more problems than usual this season. Only Guyle Fielder stands out above the rest at his position and it's likely that votes will be split among more players than is ordinarily the case.

Take goal, for instance. Bruce Gamble, the Vancouver rookie, has seven shutouts and leads in the goals-per-game averages but would you take him over Emile Francis, Marcel Pelletier or Bev Bentley this season? Gamble is playing behind a defensively-minded club yet he has shown definite inconsistency and his game average is 3.07, only fair.

* * *

Some observers claim that Francis has been the best in this division, that he is the biggest reason why Spokane Spokes have proven surprisingly hard to beat. But Francis has been charged with four goals a game. Bentley's case is hard to figure. He has the advantage of playing for the team which has led the division from the start but then the Totems are an offensively-minded club, and that makes a difference to a goalkeeper.

Pelletier, who lost out last season to Bentley in the all-star vote but led his division with a 2.43 average and a record-tying eight shutouts, hasn't quite been his old self in recent games. But a return to form for the balance of the season would re-establish him as the best on the coast at his position. Who to choose?

On defence, New Westminster's Ron Matthews will probably be a cinch selection. After him you can choose between several with little to choose between them—Brent Macnab, steady Hugh Currie and Wally Chevrier, fast-improving rookie of the Canucks; Tom Williams, an old hand who has been a big help to Spokane, Pete Wright of the Royals or Jim Hay of the Cougars, who certainly deserves consideration.

Fielder's closest rival at centre is probably Max Mekilok of Spokane. After those two, Gordie Haworth of the Cougars, rookie Ted Hampson of the Canucks, Del Topoll of Spokane, Art Jones of the Royals or?

For leftwingers, it could be close between Val Fonteyne of Seattle or our Al Nicholson. But Gordie Fashoway could spurt to 35 or 40 goals. Ching Johnson has 28 and should wind up with 40 and Hugh Barlow has 47 points, 22 of them goals.

And it seems the same at right-wing. Rugged Pat Hannigan of the Royals has 24 goals and 26 assists but Danny Belisle of the Canucks, George Ford of the Cougars and Al Johnson of the Spokes have been doing right well. It would be difficult enough to make a good selection at the end of the season but picking the WHL all-stars early is bound to be an injustice in some cases.

* * *

Selectors will pick for one division only but a glance at Prairie clubs certainly indicates that Ed Dorohoy, the ex-Cougar who is responding so well to big crowds and new surroundings that he appears to be leading Calgary's rookie-studded Stampeders to a championship, will again be an all-star this season.

And it will be against tough competition from such as teammate Sid Finney, Gerry Melnyk and rookie Murray Oliver of Edmonton and the comebacking Barry Ross of Winnipeg.

Veteran Lou Jankowski, who has been piling up goals since being put on a line with Dorohoy, will get a stiff argument from Winnipeg rookie Gerry Brisson for the left-wing spot. For right-wing, it should be between veterans Bill Mosienko and Jackie McLeod, Ray Kinasewich and Ron Leopold, a rookie who is the other fellow cashing in on Dorohoy's playmaking.

Veterans Hugh Coflin, Bud MacPherson, Fred Hucul and Bob Chrystal and a fine group of youngsters headed by Dave Amadio make defence selections in the Eastern Division as tough as they are here, but for a different reason. Rookie Roy Edwards of Calgary has the edge in goal but Al Rollins will play half the schedule for Winnipeg and if the voting was done at the end of the season might have won the nod by a margin.

Toughest decision of all for Prairie selectors will be the rookie award. They'll have to decide between Oliver, Brisson, Edwards, Amadio, Leopold and a half-dozen other sparkling first-year men.

It all adds up to one thing. If the biggest problem confronting a fellow next month is to make a sensible all-star vote he shouldn't be worrying now.

His Buck Brought Him Luck

Ed Dorohoy, Guyle Fielder Point-Happy

Ed Dorohoy, who lost ground in the race during the five previous seasons to challenger Guyle Fielder, is battling back this season to hold his position as the leading point-getter in Western Hockey League history. And it's quite a battle the two slick playmakers are having.

Dorohoy, who spent the greater portion of his professional hockey career in Victoria and is now at Calgary, seemed to have things sewn up until Fielder decided the West Coast is where he would play his hockey.

It wasn't that Dorohoy slipped, but Fielder has been so prolific in the past five seasons that he actually picked up 103 points on Dorohoy during that span, although Dorohoy averaged 77 points a season. In the past five seasons, Fielder scored 121 goals and was credited with 366 assists for the amazing average of more than 95 points a season. Dorohoy had 142 goals and 242 assists.

Starting this season, Dorohoy had 665 points (239-426) from 572 WHL games and his closest competitor was Bobby Love, who retired last season, with 620 points. Fielder was next with 562 point (146-416) from 399 games, and he started this season as if he meant to make up the difference in short order.

But Dorohoy, responding to a new setting and the huge crowds he has helped bring into the Stampede Corral, started to make up ground a month ago and is hot on the trail of a new league record with one or more points from his last 17 games. He is three points behind Fielder, 64-67, for games played so far this season but has played three fewer games than Fielder.

So, as of this morning, Dorohoy's record shows 257 goals and 472 assists — 729 points—from 608 games, while Fielder has 159 goals and 470 assists—629 points—from 439 games.

PASSES LOVE

Fielder has passed Love in total points to rank next to Dorohoy and the Seattle centre should end up ahead in assists by the end of the season. Dorohoy, however, has had more success in putting the puck into the net and is still safely in front by 100 points. He'll be 30 in March while Fielder turned 28 last November.

In any event, it should be a real battle, barring injury, for the scoring championship this season. Fielder is after his fourth, and his third in a row, while Dorohoy is seeking his second.

In eight full seasons, Dorohoy has finished first once, second once, third twice, fourth twice and eighth once.

It's only natural, then, that they are making it a two-way fight this season. Players with 30 or more points:

Protest Made By Sportsmen Over Grants

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association passed a resolution protesting any reduction in the provincial grant to the fish and game branch of the Department of Recreation and Conservation last night at its annual meeting.

With a big increase in the sale of hunting licences, members felt that the profit shown by the fish and game branch would be close to 20 per cent more than the $189,130 taken in last year. The membership went on record as unanimously opposing the fish and game branch's share of this revenue being reduced.

The meeting also expressed concern over the lack of access to rivers and lakes in B.C. and passed a resolution asking the government to provide access to all fishing and hunting areas in the province.

NEW PRESIDENT

Gill Post was elected president of the association. Other officers elected include: Cliff Bate, vice-president; Jim Mowbray, secretary-treasurer; Dick Creech, recording secretary.

Elected to the executive were Joe Garner, H. Zaccarelli, T. Zaccarelli, J. Payne, R. Wherry, Carl Carlson, Bud Bond, Bill Pearsall, J. Pynn, Alec Onischuk, C. Hamilton, Bill Dingley and Jim Goodman.

Guest speakers were Don Robinson, regional game biologist, Dave Hurn, regional fish biologist, and Ted Barsby of Nanaimo, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs.

Glen Twell won the association's silver button and club trophy for the largest deer with his 162-pound buck.

Bronze medals were awarded to V. Pallister, T. Zaccarell, W. Parker and J. A. Lucas.

Game Problems Numerous

The department of recreation and conservation, in its first report to the legislature since its formation, said Thursday it had problems.

The department listed at least nine problems it thought were major in its operation. They were:

1. Pollution of sport fish areas.
2. Prevention of harm to sport fish.
3. The search for more game preserves.
4. Eradication of coarse fish —especially killer fish—and the erection of barriers for that purpose.
5. Predator control.
6. Game damage to fertile areas.
7. Beaver control.
8. Hunting accidents.
9. Public relations. This, says the department, " is the most necessary in any game management program."

MORE VIOLATIONS

The department also listed an increase in Game and Fishing Act violations, but said full and complete figures cannot yet be supplied.

The department said that "unfortunately" there was an increase in hunting accidents, although again no figures were supplied, but said that in each case of an accident the firearms licence of the person responsible was lifted.

Trout hatchery production was doubled from 14,000 pounds to 28,000 pounds last year by the use of new trout feeds and double cropping rearing facilities by the use of both summer and winter spawned trout.

West Indies Cinches Test

MADRAS, India (Reuters)—The West Indies cricket team was virtually assured of winning its second test against India by amassing 500 runs in the first innings. India scored 27 runs for the loss of one wicket by the close of play Thursday.

Basil Butcher's 142 runs in five hours 35 minutes was the biggest contribution to the West Indies' total.

B.C. Horsemen Reach Goal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Racing officials accepted with delight Thursday the British Columbia government's announcement that it intends to establish a provincial racing commission.

Dr. John Caldwell, president of the B.C. Racing Breeders' Society, summed up general opinion when he said he is "sure everyone must gain by a board such as this and I think it's high time we had one."

The government announcement, made Thursday in the Speech from the Throne in the legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, said only that the commission would be established.

But Ken McConnell, Vancouver racing writer, said the commission will be made up of four members and a secretary, and will function on the same basic laws that govern the Ontario horse racing commission, the only other commission in Canada.

NO CERTAINTY

McConnell said there is no certainty that the commission will operate this year, but "every horse player in B.C. will endorse a commission."

"It means horse racing is now big business, the same as in New York, Florida and California where racing commissions have played a prominent part in the promotion of the sport."

Among those who expressed approval of the proposal were Jack Diamond, president of the B.C. Turf Association, Bill Randall, representing the Ascot Jockey Club, Bill Lochead, president of the B.C. division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, and Earle E. Lewis, presiding steward at Lansdowne Park Race Course.

The Ascot Club operates the fall meeting at Sandowne Park.

McConnell said one of the most important steps that may be taken by the commission will centre around the pari-mutuel tax. It will also sort out disputes between courses over racing dates.

"At present the B.C. government receives $1,250,000 from racing in B.C.," he said.

BIG "TAKEOUT"

"The takeout tax for B.C. racing is 21½ per cent. This is made up of nine per cent in the tracks; 12 per cent to the provincial government and half of one per cent to the federal government . . .

"Before the commission was organized in Ontario, the same takeout, dates and purse schedule disputes were heard. But the provincial government was convinced finally of lowering the takeout to 15½ per cent."

Chile Tournament At Boiling Point

SANTIAGO, Chile — Things aren't exactly chilly down here in Chile. Russian and Bulgarian teams have been threatened with forfeiture of all their victories if they refuse to play Nationalist China in the world basketball tournament currently being held here.

Chilean Basketball Federation, host to the tournament, said it has been advised of the decision by William Jones, secretary-general of the International Basketball Federation.

Chilean officials quoted Jones as saying that the Russians and Bulgarians would not only lose a possible two points from the scheduled games with Nationalist China but would have all other victories in the round-robin tournament taken from them.

Russian and Bulgarian team officials earlier reaffirmed that they will not play the Chinese from Formosa "because they do not represent a nation."

Russia is scheduled to play China Jan. 30 and Bulgaria to meet them the following day.

Chile moved out in front of the field of seven nations in the championship round with its second straight victory, an 83-71 victory over Puerto Rico.

Canada, relegated to the consolation round, was shaded 71-69 by United Arab Republic.

In last night's other championship round game, Brazil romped over Nationalist China, 94-76.

United States and Russia, winners of their first games, didn't play Thursday.

Ex-Collegians Tie for Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —A pair of former college stars, lanky Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., and Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N.C., fired 66s, five strokes under par, late Thursday to take a slender lead in the first round of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational golf tournament.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, the only Canadian in the tournament, had a 34-36—70.

Beware, You Buffalo!

Buffalo hunting, on a limited basis, may once again be allowed in Canada.

It is expected that the Northwest Territories Council will give approval to a regulation permitting a kill of one buffalo and setting the licence fee. The council, comprised of five elected and four appointed members, meets Monday in Ottawa.

Approval in principle has already been given to the measure, which applies to buffalo wandering from the boundaries of Wood Buffalo National Park near the Alberta border.

Spokane Pros Draw Fewer

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Spokane Spokes, who drew record hockey crowds here last season as a senior amateur club, aren't doing so well at the gate this year as a member of the professional Western Hockey League.

Figures show the Spokes have drawn 69,672 fans for 19 games here this year, an average of 647 per game less than last season when they attracted a record 105,229 for Western International League matches in the Spokane Coliseum.

World Hockey Draw Puts U.S. vs. Russia

MUNICH, Germany. (UPI) — The International Ice Hockey League last night paired the United States with Russia and world champion Canada with host country Czechoslovakia in setting up the preliminary rounds for the world amateur championships March 5-15.

The 12 teams were split into three groups of four for round-robin competition, with the two top teams from each group qualifying for the finals in Prague.

It was called a "draw"—but president John Ahearne of Britain skillfully steered the delegates of the directorate—including Russia's Yury Bazhanov—to agree to a system by which all but five teams were seeded to assure the biggest box office draw.

The preliminary round games will be played March 5-7. The final round will begin at Prague's new 12,000-capacity ice palace March 9.

Teams eliminated in the preliminary rounds will play in a consolation tournament at three towns near Prague—at Kladno, Kolin and Mlada Boleslav — while the other teams compete for the championship.

Sr. Ball Schedules 40 Games

Victoria's Senior Amateur Baseball League, which starts its second year of operation this spring, will play a 40-game schedule.

There will be a league game each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evening and a doubleheader each Saturday. Last season, games were played only three days a week.

The schedule will begin May 16 and run through Aug. 13.

MIKE HAWTHORN
. . . killed on quiet road

★ ★ ★

Ex-Racer Hawthorn Meets Ironical Fate

GUILDFORD, England (AP)—Mike Hawthorn, world champion car racing driver, was killed in an automobile accident Thursday.

The death of the 29-year-old bachelor was one of the most ironic in sports history.

After facing death a thousand times on race tracks throughout the world, he was killed on a quiet road in southern England only a few weeks after he retired from racing.

Hawthorn won the world grand prix championship last season in Italian Ferrari cars.

Hawthorn was driving to London in his Jaguar and the Royal Automobile Club said it was involved with a truck.

"It completed a double somersault and then collided with a roadside tree," an official said. "Hawthorn's car was a complete write off."

RETIRED FROM RACING

Early this month Hawthorn agreed to act as deputy driver in the United States next year for water speed king Donald Campbell in trying for a record. When he agreed to deputize for Campbell if necessary, Hawthorn added "But I will not do any more motor racing."

Hawthorn was involved in a dozen accidents in a short career which carried him to tracks in North and South America, Africa and throughout Europe.

He was one of three bright young British drivers—two of whom now are dead. Peter Collins, Hawthorn's close friend, was killed in the German grand prix last Aug. 3. Stirling Moss is the surviving member of the trio.

Hawthorn recently had become engaged to marry London model Jean Howarth, 21-year-old green-eyed blonde.

Mounties Lost Less With Indemnity Pay

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League lost some $4,700 less last year than they did in 1957, thanks to the westward shift of the major league Giants and Dodgers.

The club's profit and loss statement, to be presented to stockholders Jan. 28, shows the loss for the season was $1,667, compared with $6,363 in 1957.

President Nat Bailey's report says the difference was a $50,000 indemnity received from the two National league clubs for their invasion of PCL territory at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood.

The indemnity also permitted the Mounties to reduce by $31,000 the debts the club assumed when it purchased the franchise from Brick Laws after the 1956 season.

It also eased the blow of reduced crowds—down to 246,000 last year from 306,000 in 1956.

Soccer Final Still Jinxed

Weather has caused postponement of the B.C. high school soccer championship game for the third time this season.

The championship game between Victoria High School and King Edward High School, scheduled for Vancouver Saturday, has been cancelled because rain has made the pitch unplayable.

The sudden-death game was postponed twice before Christmas because of weather conditions.

He totalled 337 runs, compared with the record score of 364 set by England's Sir Leonard Hutton in 12-hour, 20-minute stand against Australia at London in 1938.

Sugar Ray Angered About Movie Split

NEW YORK (UPI)—A breach between Sugar Ray Robinson and the International Boxing Club was threatened last night.

The middleweight champion angrily declared that if he had to sue the IBC and United Artists for certain fight-movie money, "then I'll never fight for Truman Gibson and the IBC again."

His declarations followed a conference with President Gibson of the IBC at IBC headquarters.

After the conference, an IBC spokesman reported that Sugar Ray had told Gibson he should fight either Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, or Carmen Basilio, ex-middleweight ruler, as his next opponent.

MOORE FIRST

But Robinson said, "I told Gibson I wanted a shot at Moore's light heavyweight title in my next fight, and that I could defend against Basilio later."

The 38-year-old champion, one of the greatest all-round fighters in ring history, was incensed over the figures shown him Thursday as his share from the fight movies of his two title bouts with Basilio, Sept. 23, 1957, and last March 25.

He said he was getting 45 per cent of the net movie returns from the first fight and 30 per cent from the second one.

'RIDICULOUS'

But the figures they showed me were ridiculous," he asserted. "I won't accept them. And if Basilio does, he's silly. Unless they give me my rightful share, I'll bring suit against both the IBC and United Artists, the distributors."

Concerning his desire for a fight with Moore: Sugar Ray explained: "I won't be happy unless I win a third crown, and besides Archie is the hottest attraction in boxing today."

Robinson was welterweight (147-pound) champion before he won the middleweight (160-pound title. He tried to take the light-heavyweight (175-pound) championship from Joey Maxim on June 25, 1952, but he was overcome by the 104-degree heat in Yankee Stadium and lost on a 14th-round technical knockout.

Durelle To Quit Boxing?

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., British Empire light-heavyweight boxing champion, said in an interview Thursday that he plans to quit boxing this fall.

Durelle said his fight this fall with Archie Moore, world light-heavy weight champion, likely will be his last unless he should win the title. Even if he wins, the fisherman added, he will quit boxing soon.

Durelle said he plans to hire new trainers and handlers for the next Moore fight and will dismiss everyone but manager Chris Shaban.

Durelle, who lost to Moore in a title fight in Montreal Dec. 9, said he is trying to hire Charlie Goldman, the former trainer of Rocky Marciano.

Durelle was in Lethbridge for a sports banquet.

Garden Notes

Peonies Need Fussing

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I must confess that most of my gardening operations are a bit on the haphazard side—my neighbor Ernie uses the word "shiftless" in describing my routine—and there are a lot of sprayings and dustings recommended in the book which never seem to get done.

By sad experience, though, I have learned that two of these preventive measures are absolutely essential, and come hell or high water, the peach tree gets sprayed against the leaf-curl disease and the peonies are watched over like a hawk when their little red shoots come pushing their noses through the soil surface.

Botrytis disease of peonies is becoming increasingly common in Victoria gardens, and as there are no early symptoms, there is no way of knowing whether your plants are infected or not until it is too late to do anything about it.

The plants start off in fine fettle in the spring, making vigorous and healthy growth. Flower buds appear on schedule, and start to swell normally. And about this time, things go wrong.

When the buds are just a little larger than a pea, everything stops. The buds grow no bigger, and after hanging fire for a week or so, they turn brown and drop off. And, of course, there are no flowers.

In less severe infections, the buds grow to normal size and start to open, but when the flowers expand the petals are found to be more than half rotted.

Botrytis is a fungus infection, and when I say "fungus", I don't mean anything like toadstools or those shelf-like excrescences found on the stumps of dead trees, but something more closely resembling the mildew which forms on damp clothes.

There isn't very much you can do for a peony plant once it is well and truly infected, but the disease can be prevented. And as it never attacks the roots, but survives on rubbish on the soil surface, waiting to re-infect your plant in early spring, you have a fresh chance to combat it every spring.

The first thing to do is to house-clean the soil, making sure the surface is as clean as your kitchen floor. Pick up every speck of last year's dead foliage, together with twigs, fallen leaves or litter of any kind. The disease spores spend the winter on such rubbish, and the proper place for it is on the garden bonfire.

Follow this up by giving your peonies a real square meal, and for this purpose I don't know of anything more relished than a 50-50 mixture of bone meal and wood ashes. If these are bits of charred wood and charcoal in the ashes, so much the better. Each plant will take about 4 cupfuls of the mixture, scratching it into the top two inches of soil around the circumference of the clump.

With the peony beds religiously housecleaned and the plants fed a high-potash diet to increase their resistance to the disease, the final move is to coat the emerging shoots and the surrounding soil with a fungicide to kill off any disease spores which may have escaped our attention.

Probably the easiest way of doing this job is to use one of the all-purpose garden dusts sold nowadays in puffer applicators, as these dusts all contain a reliable fungicide as one of their ingredients. Rose dust, tomato dust, potato dust, Pomogreen, Gardenall—any of these will do the trick.

Murrow Touch Welcomed

Any comment on the subject matter of Wednesday night's CBS-TV special, "The Lost Class of '59," would be outside my domain. However, I think some points can be made safely:

—A show of substance is always welcome in the prime time swamp-land.

—"The Lost Class of '59," an Ed Murrow-Fred Friendly offering, was a show of substance about the controversy over school integration in Norfolk, Va. Although the show added little that was new, it performed a quite valuable service: it dropped into focus both sides of the battle for viewers in a neat one hour package.

—The show was constructed along the brilliant lines of the old "See It Now" shows. One typical Murrow-Friendly technique was used to good effect—cross cutting between speeches made by partisans of both sides.

—What's wrong with television that it can't support "See It Now" type of shows on a regular prime time basis?

CBS-TV's Armstrong Circle Theatre began a moderately interesting critter in "The Man With A Thousand Names." It was a true drama about a newsman who turned writer and made $300,000. Unfortunately, he made it all by writing bad cheques and was jugged during his literary spree by a hard-working cop. Larry Gates and Milton Selzer as jugger and juggee turned in commendable jobs.

* * *

Now that Ed Wynn's dreary NBC-TV situation comedy has folded, it's heartening to see him back in harness as a clown. Wynn's appearance on the Milton Berle show was a salutary addition to the schedule.

* * *

There's a strong possibility that Frank Sinatra will return to ABC-TV next season in a series of one hour specials for a cigaret firm . . . "Your Hit Parade" will close its season on CBS-TV on April 24.

Playhouse 90 will return to CBS-TV next season, but the series may be sliced from 39 to 26 shows . . . Sid Caesar, Art Carney and Audrey Meadows will tape a special one hour variety show on Feb. 14 which will be seen on NBC-TV May 3—it replaces "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," originally scheduled for NBC-TV on that date.

NBC-TV's Tic Tac Dough is looking for Lieut. Jim Astrue, a 26-year-old air force officer who was incorrectly judged wrong on a quiz answer this past Monday. Astrue had won $65,600 when he was knocked off.

Bing Crosby Enterprises is preparing a series about a lawyer for ABC-TV—it stars James Whitmore and is called "Lincoln Jones."

Hollywood Today

Castro Films A-Coming

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—From Havana I hear that no one, and this includes Errol Flynn, has exclusive film rights to the life of the victorious rebel, Fidel Castro. There are two diaries about Castro written by journalists who covered his two years of fighting dictator Batista, and there is also a book about him. So it looks as though we'll have at least three Castro movies.

* * *

George Raft is looking for an acting job in Hollywood, now that such a big hunk of his money has gone down the drain in his Havana casino.

* * *

Barbara Rolck, so good in "Carousel," is reactivating her career, starring on stage in "The Boy Friend."

* * *

Former Hollywood actor Gregg Juares has rented a fancy apartment in Acapulco for one year. His ex-bride, millionairess Bobo Sigrist, was still cavorting in London when last heard from.

* * *

Beautiful TV saleslady Julia Meade, is up for a role in Jerry Wald's production of the Rona Jaffe best seller, "The Best of Everything."

* * *

Kay Starr was the guest of honor at a party for 50, given by Palm Springs man-about-town Jerry Nathanson. In the past, Nathanson has squired Anne Francis, Gloria Jean and Joan Davis. Kay was very elegant in diamonds and black lace, carrying one red rose. Could start a new fashion.

* * *

Looks like more travel in Mary Pickford's future. Husband Buddy Rogers will film his new television series in the Philippines.

* * *

"Pillow Talk," with Rock Hudson and Doris Day, will be filmed in New York. And producer Ross Hunter is there now, picking locations for his new comedy. Doris's wardrobe for "pillow talk," by the way, is drool-making. Designed by Jean Louis, favorite of Marlene Dietrich and Rita Hayworth, the costumes, trimmed with mink, ermine, sable and chinchilla, have a price tag of $72,000.

* * *

British star Belinda Lee landed an acting job for her best beau, Prince Orsini, in her new film, "The Nights of Lucretia." The prince is handsome and knows how to use a sword as well as Hugh O'Brian can shoot a gun.

* * *

Producer Jerry Wald calls the movie version of Separate Tables", "the three faces of Margaret Leighton," who played both roles—Deborah Kerr's and Rita Hayworth's—in the stage version.

* * *

Bing's youngster, Lindsay Crosby, has discovered blonde, 16-year-old Sandra Dee. They met on a Peter Potter TV show and it was interest at first sight.

* * *

I'm not holding my breath until Zsa Zsa Gabor marries wealthy builder Hal Hayes. It's my opinion that Hal is a most confirmed bachelor who likes to date pretty women.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	2 ◇
4 ♠	5 ◇	All Pass

Opening lead: ♠ 2

East's sub-standard third seat opening, and South's doubtful vulnerable overcall were typical of match-point bidding. West appeared defenceless and tried unsuccessfully to shut out North whose call of five diamonds was rather questionable. In view of his balanced hand, a double might have been wiser.

South won the opening spade lead and realized that the hand would depend upon the location of the club queen. He led a trump, won by West's king. South ruffed the spade continuation, and led another diamond. East now found himself endplayed. A spade lead would give declarer a ruff-sluff, while a heart or club lead would eliminate the guess in that suit.

However, East had a perfect count on South's hand. South was marked with one spade, six diamonds, and six cards in clubs and hearts. To justify his vulnerable overcall, he needed at least the club king and the heart ace. If East played a club, South would be sure of four club tricks, which—added to the ace and king of hearts—would leave no side suit losers. A heart return, on the other hand, would still leave South with a guess in clubs, unless he had started with four hearts and only two clubs. East therefore returned the heart queen! South cashed three hearts, and when East failed to follow on the third heart, South was now reasonably certain that East had four clubs. He led a club to dummy's ace, and finessed the ten-spot on the way back, losing to West's queen.

Fine defence led to the defeat of the contract, but no blame attaches to declarer who certainly made the percentage play.

Little Rock Parents Resigned

No School This Year

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Most Negro Little Rock high school students and their parents apparently are resigned to finishing this year in segregated schools.

Only a handful of Negroes showed up at a public school meeting Wednesday at which parents were asked to register their children for classes open if they are integrated.

Of parents who attended, most signed up their children for classes in the segregated schools. Some said they would take their children to the integrated classes if they were assured of safety.

Mrs. Daisy Bates, president of the state NAACP, said she would file a petition in federal court Friday asking that the U.S. district court here be ordered to prevent reopening of the schools on a segregated basis until it can develop a plan for operating them in a manner acceptable both to the court and residents of the district.

An easy and inexpensive do-it-yourself house is promised to anyone who heads north to where the snow is [illegible] deep. In a demonstration by Eskimos Jasper Jiktauer and Lowatuk, the igloo was assembled in 77 minutes. Group Capt. C. R. Dixon of Brampton, England, and Air Commodore J. B. Looking for BARGAIN-PRICE DIAMONDS?

People are often lured by "bargain prices" for diamonds. But the amount you pay for a diamond is in no way a measurement of the value you are actually getting.

If you don't know diamonds, how are you to know if you are getting a fine diamond at a low price, or just a "cheap" diamond at a cheap price.

Your only protection lies in your selection of a jeweller whose integrity and knowledge you can trust — a jeweller like BIRKS, Canada's largest jewellers, diamond specialists for [illegible] generations. Birks are active members of The American Gem Society. As Registered Jewellers we can offer our knowledge — our experience — and skill as your assurance of quality.

No Spring Hats As Legislature Session Opens

Spring may be around the corner but the mercury stood at zero at the opening session of the B.C. Legislature yesterday, gave no indication.

Blame it on the weather.

One of the most impressive days yet experienced by the Lady Members and the wives for the third session of the 28th Legislature of B.C. and for ladies visiting the House, saw women bundled and muffled against the weather.

WISHFUL THINKING

Brooches and bows adorned almost the entire packed legislative dining room. The exuberance of wishful thinking that the weather might be better.

Mrs. Ruth Rosner, MLA (Com., Cariboo), being chairman, was asked to a non-luncheon but attended in a most fashionable ensemble of geranium pink brocade. Her headpiece was in shades of blue and green.

Mrs. Dorothy Steves, MLA (Soc., Burnaby), was also in a non-luncheon but attended in a pink dress and matching pillbox hat with a veil. She wore a sparkling necklace of green and blue stones.

Another member, Mrs. Lois Haggen, MLA (Liberal, Finlay-Omineca), with her desk place adorned with a small bouquet of violets and a pink bow, was present in a gold [illegible] with [illegible] and a [illegible] of crushed gold and [illegible] and a [illegible].

Homes for Aged Licensing 'Mess' Expected to End

An end to the complaints about delays in licensing of homes that care for Greater Victoria's aged and infirm should be one result of B.C.'s new health setup, say welfare officials.

The Throne Speech yesterday said there would be a reorganization of the department of health and welfare with the aim of providing more adequate care for the aged and infirm. Provincial Secretary and Minister of Welfare Wesley Cecil-Smith said the welfare department and the welfare branch of the health department would be reorganized.

The Throne Speech also said the provincial government would be able to give more attention to the problems of the aged and infirm.

Mr. Cecil-Smith said the reorganization of the welfare department would be one of the results of the new health setup.

Mr. Cecil-Smith said the reorganization

CONSIDERED BUILDING? IF SO, IN VICTORIA IT COSTS LESS TO BUY THE BEST IN CONSTRUCTION

This is what a former NHA inspector, Mr. Thickett, Chief Controller, has written the best house in Victoria.

This has been said before by unbiased people who are in a position to know the honest construction of houses in this position that they are offering to make good statements. The Vincent house is one of the best houses, also one of the best bedroom homes at $16,50 per sq. foot. I make no secret of the large discounts thousands upon thousands of people are prepared to give, in order to get such a home. Contractor who erected homes approved up to 10 yrs. For example a contractor can produce a better furnace in his home for nothing, the same size as some homes, give each of each price or the discount off of a Vincent home. Consider the other houses.

A house of over 200 makes. Free of any commission. Offer of the most extensive services to buy the NHA house.

According to the Financial News, there is a shortage of NHA funds. We are fortunate to have a good deal of NHA mortgages.

The only way we can do this now is to be a Key Broker. I am the only broker in Victoria who is a Key Broker. Contact Construction Co., Ltd. Some other companies are still doing some of the components of Vincent Construction Co. Ltd. Some other companies are still doing some of the homes for sale. Contact Construction Co. Ltd. Winter Lull Not Inevitable

CLC Urges Action To Cut Unemployed

OTTAWA (CP)—Proposals for reducing unemployment were placed before the federal cabinet yesterday by the 1,150,000-member Canadian Labor Congress.

In its annual legislative submission to the government, the congress said mass winter unemployment should not be accepted as "an inevitable feature of the Canadian economy."

Top CLC officers went before Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other ministers two days after government figures indicated mid-December unemployment at 440,000, a post war high for the period.

"We believe that the government and the Parliament of Canada possess ample powers and enough knowledge, if not to forestall, at least to remedy, the result of any decrease in economic activity," the brief said.

The brief called for these measures:

Introduction of special incentives—such as concessions on taxes, interest rates and depreciation allowances — to stimulate winter work.

Increases in unemployment insurance and government-paid pensions to boost purchasing power.

Federal initiative in promoting subsidized low-rental housing projects.

Compilation of more information to increase the effectiveness of measures to combat unemployment.

Another proposal was an "immediate public investigation into the wage-profit relationship in the auto, steel, farm implement and other basic industries.

It also proposed a "world economic conference of free nations and suggested the Canadian government take the initiative in calling such a conference.

"Real wage rates since the war have risen about kept pace with increases in productivity. We are much more concerned about the slowness of recovery and the persistence of unemployment than about the risk of a new inflation," the brief said.

Welfare Meeting To Be Discussed

The recent Canadian Welfare Council meeting on social security measures in Ottawa will be discussed at a Community Welfare meeting Thursday at 2 p.m. at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook Street.

Guest speaker, Norman Cragg, executive secretary of the public welfare division of the CWC at Ottawa, will talk about conference recommendations [illegible] public assistance, unemployment insurance, health, and survivor programs.

Community Hall Plans Fire Exits

A 100 per cent vote favoring additional fire exits for Cordova Bay community hall has been made by community club members.

The local fire marshal said told the club to install more fire exits in close the hall.

A spokesman for the club said the executive and building committee will meet with the fire marshal to discuss the exit installation details.

The first post at Moose Factory on James Bay was built by the explorers Radisson and Groseilliers in 1671.

Pianist Deserved Bigger Audience

By BERT BINNY

Bad weather notwithstanding, pianist Denise Mara deserved a bigger audience than that which attended her recital Wednesday night at Holy Rood House.

Her program was both interesting and varied. Her performance was not one to be missed.

Miss Mara's capacity to catch the mood of her composers is outstanding. It was noted throughout her European tour. She is not tremendously forceful but she is very definitely compelling.

Her talents were on display to the greatest advantage perhaps in Five Preludes by Debussy. "Fireworks," for example, was full of star shells, rockets and galloping pips with absolutely no damp squibs.

The Mozart and Chopin selections were delightful.

While some question must arise as to the feasibility of arranging Bach's organ music for piano, Miss Mara achieved an aural effect with a prelude and a toccata and fugue.

Curb Splurge Urge For Royalty—MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Alexis Caron, Liberal MP for Hull, Que., called on the government to watch expenses during Queen Elizabeth's visit to Canada next summer.

He did not suggest that the government skimp, but said Canadians might not accept "exaggerated expenses during a time of recession."

SALES TAX REVENUE SOARS TO RECORD $87,244,382

More Than $2,000,000 Higher Than 1957

Biggest single revenue producer for the provincial government during the last fiscal year was the 5 per cent social security sales tax which soared to a new record of $87,244,382, more than $2,000,000 higher than in 1957

Motor fuel and fuel oil taxes realized $27,475,237.36, property taxes $6,463,390.95, and motor vehicle licences and permits brought in $14,685,519.08, according to Public Accounts released yesterday in the legislature.

$90,000,000 RECORD

On the expenditure side a new $90,000,000 record was set by the building and maintenance of highways, roads, bridges, ferries, docks and wharves.

Although centennial celebrations had hardly gotten under way by the end of the last fiscal year, March 31, 1958, $1,793,160.33 had already been expended on centennial celebrations.

GRANTS-IN-AID

Services and grants-in-aid for hospitals cost the government $38,214,433.63 and operation of mental hospitals another $12,625,947.30.

Parks, beaches and recreation area development cost $2,358,472.84. Police protection cost $1,512,799.32, and law enforcement another $1,449,567.46. Correction of juvenile delinquents cost $2,062,380.92 and of other offenders $6,028,716.95.

AID TO AGED

The provincial government spent $15,047,543.12 on aid to the aged and $8,806,032.49 on social assistance. Child welfare cost $2,295,737.40.

Some $43,000,000, an increase of nearly $4,000,000 over 1957, was paid in grants, aids and services for schools operated by local authorities and another $6,689,278 to universities, colleges and normal schools.

DEBT RETIREMENT

The government spent $30,332,000 on debt retirement and $11,020,303 on grants in aid of local government. Subsidy paid to the Toll Highways and Bridges Authority was $1,457,184, compared to $632,727 in 1957.

Total gross expenditure was $351,302,764.34 and gross revenue was $322,434,348, with money from the current account, revenue surplus account and capital account being used to make up the balance.

Ceremony Goes On, Rain or Not

Standing in the rain during ceremonies opening the legislature yesterday, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, second from right, takes salute from the RCAF guard of honor from Comox RCAF station. Braving rain with lieutenant-governor are, from left, aides Lt.-Cmdr. J. C. Davies, Brig. John Adam, Mrs. Ross, Wing Cmdr. J. D. D. Campbell and RCMP Inspector T. A. Horn.

$2,000,000 More Spent By Drinkers in B.C.

British Columbians drank $2,000,000 more liquor last year than they did in 1957.

Sale of liquor in B.C. for fiscal year ending March 31, 1958, brought $26,838,507.41 to the province's consolidated revenue fund, public accounts showed yesterday.

It was up nearly $2,000,000 from 1957 when revenue was $25,048,630.26.

Gross liquor sales to the public amounted to $66,832,135.95 and to licensees, $26,257,969.48, for a total of $93,090,105.43.

Shuffle to Split Health Branch

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A reorganization of the provincial department of health and welfare and mental health services was called for yesterday in the Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at yesterday's legislature opening.

The move, first predicted in The Daily Colonist Jan. 1, calls for a new department of health services and hospital insurance to combine services now rendered by mental health services under the provincial secretary with the health branch and hospital insurance service now under the health and welfare department.

The welfare branch will now become a separate department.

NEW MINISTER

It can be assumed that this will call for a new cabinet minister, with Eric Martin continuing as health branch and hospital insurance minister and the new minister directing the new welfare department.

Thought to be a possible candidate for the new minister's post is Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt), who is the Social Credit caucus leader, convention chairman and sparkplug of political campaigns for the Socreds.

The Throne Speech said definitely that a start will be made this year on Victoria's new courthouse. The Colonist said Jan. 1 that the long-awaited $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 courthouse would be started in October as a winter work program, but completion will not be until 1960.

CBC Ultimatum:

Back to Work Or Be Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — The publicly-owned CBC Thursday gave roughly 1,200 of its Montreal employees supporting the television producers' strike the choice of returning to work or losing their jobs.

The ultimatum was contained in letters sent to all staff members who have not reported for work since the Montreal producers walked off their jobs Dec. 29 to back demands for recognition of their newly-formed Association des Realisateurs (CCL) as bargaining agent.

Corporation officials told a press conference late Thursday the CBC will start hiring personnel to fill vacancies created by those who do not return to work.

The corporation also said it will refuse to have any further dealings with the producers' association in its efforts to restore normal television broadcasting services in Montreal.

Can't Get Both

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday told labor that it "can't have it both ways." Delegates of the Canadian Labor Congress had asked him for increased government social security measures and reduced taxes at the same time.

Lipstick Tax 'Unfair'

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the three women members of the Commons today urged removal of the 10 per cent federal excise tax on lipstick, shaving cream, toothpaste, baby oils and other cosmetics.

"Lipstick is not a luxury," said Margaret Aitken (P.C., York-Humber) in the Commons throne speech debate. "Half the electors of this country agree with me."

She described the tax on cosmetics as "discriminatory," "unfair" and "incongruous." The excise tax had been removed a few years ago from such items as fishing rods, cameras and soft drinks.

Red Defector Hands Over List of Spies

BONN (Reuters) — The deputy chief of East Germany's espionage system who fled to the West said Thursday he has handed over to authorities here a list of Communist espionage agents operating throughout Europe.

Lt.-Col. Siegfried Dombrowski, 42, told a press conference that East Germany employs about 60,000 espionage agents—20 per cent of them active in Western Europe.

Another Baby Kidnapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — A woman volunteering to act as a baby-sitter for a 23-day-old boy kidnapped him after sending the infant's mother on a wild goose chase for an apartment, police reported last night.

It was the big city's second infant kidnapping this month.

Police were seeking Gladys Garcia, who met Mrs. Dora Liza Tavarez Thursday afternoon at the Metropolitan Hospital clinic.

Mrs. Tavarez, who had gone to the clinic for post-natal care, said the woman she had just met told her that she was expecting a child and that "she loved children."

Mrs. Tavarez, 31, offered the woman a ride to her apartment in a taxi. There, the Garcia woman commented on how small the Tavarez apartment was and said she knew of a larger apartment available in the Bronx.

She offered to care for the baby while the mother went to see it.

Mrs. Tavarez discovered that the address she had been given was that of a post office.

The mother hurried home, arriving there about 4 p.m. Both the woman and her son were missing.

The woman and her neighbors searched the neighborhood for hours before reporting to police shortly after 10 p.m. After still another search, police turned in a kidnapping alarm.

Detectives were checking hospital records for a lead to the Garcia woman. Their task was complicated by the fact that the clinic listed 10 Garcia women undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Tavarez had been in this country about two years, arriving here from the Dominican Republic.

Reds Lack The Big One

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Thursday that Russia does not have an intercontinental ballistic missile it could fire against the United States.

Final Weapon Study Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clinton P. Anderson called Thursday for high-priority study of weather control. He called it "the ultimate weapon" which could be used to "bring the United States to her knees."

Fishboat Turns Away From Drowning Woman

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman was drowned before help could reach her in West Bay Thursday.

Dead is Mrs. Dorothy Wyndham, 66.

R. H. Ferguson said he hailed a passing fishboat after he spotted Mrs. Wyndham about 50 yards offshore, swimming and calling for help. He said the fishboat veered in toward shore, then turned and sped away.

Here's Where New Breakwater Will Rise This Year

Happy news for both owners of small boats and Oak Bay came with Ottawa announcement last night that $200,000 will be spent this year on Turkey Head breakwater, to extend most of way between Oak Bay seashore and Mary Tod Island. Breakwater has long been sought as shelter for small craft using Oak Bay Boathouse. "This is a great thing for small boat owners," said Reeve George Murdoch, "and also for our seawall which gets knocked around in those southeast gales. The government has been very generous." Letters to the Editor

Excessive Taxes

Excessive Taxes

We, the members of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, Victoria branch, have no objection to the equalization act which has been passed by our present government. The valuation was set by the provincial assessor at 60 per cent of the value, as a means of getting a fair standard. This assessment equalization has been asked for on several occasions by the Victoria city council. We know taxes have to be levied and paid, so as to keep the services going in the municipality.

What we do object to is the increase in our pro- [illegible] municipal valuation has increased, without expansion, then the mill rate should come down and taxes would be kept even and everyone be paying their fair share. It is the city council which sets the mill rate and levies the property tax.

Canadian Traditions

A brilliant, inspired and most penetrating statement was recently made in our federal House when Louis Fortin made his maiden speech. It was: "There is such a thing as Canadianism, but it will be maintained only so long as the various groups that make up Canada remain attached to their own traditions."

This observation in its wisdom, offers the essence of tolerance without which we are no longer Canadians. It challenges all of us to do more listening and learning, for all around us in Canada is the immigrant, who one day will be no less Canadian than we who have welcomed him to his new home. Most important is the stress placed upon individuality.

Foot in Mouth Again

I note in the Colonist of Jan. 21, that Mr. McPhillips has spoken again in Parliament and that he referred to Donald Gordon, the president of the CNR, as "this big pooh-bah down in Montreal."

Quite apart from the fact that I do not know the meaning of the word "pooh-bah" which I cannot find in my dictionary, I feel that it is most unbecoming for the Victoria member of Parliament to refer to one of Canada's greatest brains in that manner. I am afraid such an outburst relegates Mr. McPhillips to the position he has built up in Ottawa as being irresponsible, and as your newspaper very aptly put it some months ago, Mr. McPhillips puts his foot in his mouth every time he speaks.

Mr. McPhillips has every right to ask questions but by being childish he loses the respect not only of his own party members but of the people in general.

I would strongly recommend to Mr. McPhillips that when he wishes to be childish again he should pick someone of his own calibre for his remarks.

M. P. B. WRIXON.

Accent on Canada

I have just listened to a discussion on a local radio station about whether or not we should change our national flag. Some of the people participating referred several times to the British Commonwealth. There is no British Commonwealth. There is a Commonwealth of Nations and a British Empire.

It seems to me a very ridiculous thing for people to voice their opinions in public when they know so little about the subject they are talking about.

May I inform them that Canada originated the British Commonwealth which is now the Commonwealth of Nations.

This doesn't have much to do with whether or not we should change our flag. I think we should have a flag symbolic of Canada alone. I can think of no other reason for having a flag.

Vancouver's Jobless To March on Victoria

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor leaders here plan a mass march by 600 to 700 persons on the provincial legislature next month to support demands for emergency action [illegible]

The move is the latest planned of many that have made unemployment a leading topic for discussion and dispute in British Columbia during recent weeks.

Today a mass meeting sponsored by the Vancouver Labor Council will discuss unemployment and Council President Lloyd Whalen says it will try to find means to "put pressure on governments until something is done."

The federal government's latest figures, to mid-December, show B.C. with 68,700 unemployed, a decrease of 7,300 from a year earlier, and 514,000 persons working, up [illegible] from the previous year.

The Feb. 2 march on Victoria is being organized by the B.C. Federation of Labor. In a brief to the government recently, the federation demanded that the unemployment situation be declared an emergency and the province take action to combat it including provision immediately of $5,000,000 in assistance.

Labor representatives seek extension of unemployment benefits to all unemployed so long as they are unemployed. They say many unemployed have exhausted their benefits. Labor also seeks public works programs by governments at all levels.

Integration Without Hitch

Negroes had been urged by their leaders to sit where they pleased, but Negro men were cautioned not to sit beside white women.

No Bid Made For New Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming said yesterday he is unaware of any application for a charter for establishment of a co-operative bank in Canada.

There is some talk among credit unions in favor of establishing such a bank to handle cheques drawn on credit union savings accounts.

The chartered banks have raised their charges for handling such cheques.

Education Probe Told:

Cut Hygiene And Teach Them French

How to keep clean and how to get along with people are subjects more for the home than for school, a parent-teacher association spokesman suggested yesterday to the royal commission on education.

The commission, headed by Dean S. N. F. Chant of the University of B.C., heard elaborations on 11 previously-submitted briefs in the first two days of hearings at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Monterey PTA had submitted a brief urging that courses in the sciences, history, geography and French be started at the primary level. Commissioner J. E. Liersch wanted to know if this proposal wouldn't mean displacing other valuable instruction.

But John D. Taylor, representing the PTA, said much time was spent on hygiene and social studies. He suggested it would be beneficial to "eliminate the health and bring in the French teacher."

Mr. Taylor appeared to be in some agreement with the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association which earlier had called for an end to the "soft approach" in education.

Turning out well-rounded individuals was fine, Mr. Taylor said, but the PTA felt there was a distinct tendency to let studies on the academic side fall more than was necessary.

The commission also questioned Mr. Taylor about the PTA's recommendation that "consideration be given to instituting some form of compulsory school-approved dress."

No Uniforms Suggested

Mr. Taylor assured the commission the association wasn't suggesting uniforms — "not necessarily girls in black middies and long black stockings, but some form of standardization."

Girls might be in neat sweaters and skirts, he said, and boys might be prohibited from wearing black jackets with steel buttons or big boots.

Mr. Liersch asked if the PTA was thinking about taxes when it recommended that expenditures for gymnasiums, auditoriums, cafeterias and other facilities not essential to education be reduced.

Mr. Taylor said the PTA's point of view was more that "there's a certain amount of money to spend, and let's get the most academic training out of it that you can."

The auditorium used for the hearings was a good example, he said, because it had a costly sloping floor. With a flat floor it could double as a gymnasium.

Mr. Taylor also suggested to the commission that a return to more academic teaching presumed a return to much stronger discipline.

"There's quite a lot to be said for the hickory stick method," he said.

The Deep Cove Property Owners' Association brief had strongly criticized "progressive" education and called for stronger discipline, separation of academic and technical students, more emphasis on academic training, elimination of auditoriums and gymnasiums from school and of physical education courses.

Douglas Cobbett, representing the association, said in reply to commission questions that the group felt education had come to a crisis.

Something Drastic Needed

He couldn't say that everything in the progressive philosophy was bad, Mr. Cobbett said, "but it has got out of hand, and the interpretation of that philosophy has become almost ridiculous. Something drastic will have to be done and fairly quickly."

There was a dearth of time to amass "only a small part of what one would like to know in the field of knowledge," he said—"Why then are we in the West so concerned with social adjustment, hobbies and such trivia, when there is a job to be done?"

On the question of physical education, he said the feeling of the group seemed to be that calisthenics had a place in the schools, but games were not conducive to good physical health.

(A spokesman for the Greater Victoria branch of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Inc., said later in the day that games had a great contribution to make in physical education and in education generally).

Mr. Cobbett maintained that progressivism had weakened discipline—"It has become extremely weak." Tightening it up would benefit not only the students but in due course the whole of society, he said.

Summer May Be Extended

Days may be "longer" later in Victoria's tourist season, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black told Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Mr. Black wrote to the tourist trade group of the chamber saying that the provincial cabinet will consider an extension of daylight saving time by a month, to the last Sunday in October. The move was requested by the group earlier this month.

Gaglardi Travels Cost Most

B.C.'s cabinet ministers spent $31,388.61 in travelling expenses, the Public Accounts, released yesterday, disclosed.

Highways Minister Gaglardi retained the distinction of being the cabinet's most travelled minister. He spent $4,269.77 and costs of his air travel could be added to this total when highways department accounts are considered later in the session.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan was second with $3,605.92 in travelling expenses, and Labor Minister Wicks, along with his second portfolio of railways minister, was next biggest spender at $3,513.69, just nosing out Premier Bennett, who spent $3,502.86 in travelling. Attorney-General and Trade Minister Robert Bonner spent $3,223.26.

M. J. Frey, publisher of the Portland Oregonian, is retiring president of the association. Secretary is Adam Lleweilan.

Three Alternatives

Lone Tender Decides Fate of Old Houses

A single tender received for completion of rebuilding of seven houses moved by the city to Chambers and Queens will be opened by city council today.

The price quoted will lead council to a decision on one of three courses: letting a contract for the work, having city workmen finish the job they started or offering the houses for sale "as is."

Six of the houses were moved to their present location from the site of the new firehall and one from Caledonia Avenue. Original rough estimate of renovating them for sale was $35,000, but nearly $58,000 had been spent by the time work stopped early in December, and an estimate at that time was that another $28,000 would be needed to complete them.

Student Merchant Princes Idea May Be Tried Out in Victoria

Victoria Jaycees may sponsor the formation of "manufacturing companies" with high school students as officers and employees under the junior achievement scheme operating throughout North America.

Jaycee members Roy Baker and Alex Marshall recently visited Vancouver to gain information about the program.

Tentative plans for introduction of the scheme to Victoria call for eight companies with between 12 and 20 high school students in each company. Capital is raised by selling shares at 50 cents each and any profit from the year's operations is returned to shareholders.

Companies manufacture articles and sell them. Regular officers are appointed within each group and city businessmen will be asked to advise and help the teen-age businessmen.

Victim Found Bleeding on Street

Pensioner Stabbed in Hotel

* * *

Neighbors of Couple Tell of 'Brawlings'

A Victoria pensioner was in "satisfactory" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night, the victim of a bizarre stabbing affray in a hotel at 1312 Government.

Robert H. Jones, 67, war veteran and for many years an employee of the federal post office, suffered a stab wound in the chest and lost considerable blood before reaching hospital.

The incident came to police attention shortly after 3.30 p.m. when a woman approached Const. Ronald Ferguson at Government and Yates and complained that her husband was bothering her.

Const. Ferguson turned to the man and saw that he was bleeding from a wound in the chest. The officer promptly called for the police ambulance and the man, Mr. Jones, was taken to hospital.

The woman was taken to city police headquarters.

There were indications that both had been drinking.

Back in the hotel where the two had been living common-law for some time (Mr. Jones had been a tenant there for two weeks) neighbors told of hearing quarreling between them for some time.

"They'd been brawling for days," said William Coventry, who occupies the next room.

"They'd been brawling for days," he repeated several times, then added:

"I heard her say, 'I want my purse. This is your last chance.'. I didn't hear any more. I think they went out then."

SIMILAR COMMENT

A similar comment by the woman was overheard by Ernie Kruse, whose room is next but one on the other side of Jones'.

"I'd been out shopping," he said, "and when I was coming in I heard the woman say 'Give me my purse!'

"She was standing outside her door, wearing a skirt and blouse. I didn't see him then. He may have been in the room.

"A few minutes later I went out of my room to get some water.

"She was out there again, this time fully dressed. I heard her say 'Don't push me, I can get down.'

"A moment or so later I looked over the stair rail, and he (Mr. Jones) was sitting on one of the steps, half-way down. I don't know where she was, or when they went out."

ARGUMENTS HEARD

Mr. Kruse said he'd heard the two arguing the last couple of nights.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Holben, managers of the hotel, saw the two leave the building, but had no idea anything was seriously wrong.

"The woman was making quite a disturbance," said Mr. Holben, "and Mr. Jones apologized to my wife for the way the other woman was behaving. He looked a bit pale, but we didn't know he was hurt."

BOTH WENT OUT

"We certainly didn't," said Mrs. Holben, "or we'd have called the police right away."

"We told him to let her go," said Mr. Holben, "and the two apparently went out. I don't know if they went outside together."

The stabbing obviously occurred in the room the two occupied, near the head of the stairs on the second floor. There were bloodstains on bed and floor, near the door, on the stairway, and just inside the street-level door.

Apparent weapon was one of two butcher knives found in the room, one in a drawer, the other in a club bag. One of them had also been used in preparing a meal, evidently to be cooked on the small hotplate in the room.

Second Look Urged

Port Bypass Plan Scored

Comox MLA Dan Campbell yesterday urged Northland Navigation Co. to take a second look at its plan to cut Campbell River from its ports of call.

The Northland company, which recently took over the service from Union Steamships, this week dropped Campbell River from its itinerary on both north and southbound trips between Vancouver and northern Vancouver Island points.

Mr. Campbell said the Northland company claims there is no point in calling at Campbell River because that village has reasonable road connections.

"That is not the point at all," Mr. Campbell said. "Campbell River happens to be the jumping off point for people going to and from the north end of the Island. Now a traveller wishing to go to the north end of the Island has to go all the way to Vancouver first."

Mr. Campbell charged there has been "a chipping away of all transportation services to the north Island, particularly in the last 20 years." He said the area is worse off now than it was 20 years ago.

Now served by Northland Navigation are Alert Bay, Sointula, Port Hardy, Port McNeil and Port Alice.

Walk to School Cut?

NANAIMO—School trustees here may revert to the two-mile walk limit for rural students attending junior high schools and solve the transportation problem for about 60 youngsters.

But by doing so, the board will be footing the bill on its own. Letter from the education department informed the board that the transportation costs would not be shared by the government.

Notice of motion by Mrs. Marion Ricker asked that the walk-line revert to two miles from two and one-half miles. Junior high school students in Wellington and Chase River would then be eligible for bus transportation to school.

Parents protested enforcement of the two and one-half mile limit earlier this month because it meant their children would have to walk to school along the busy Trans-Canada Highway.

NANAIMO—Former alderman Edward Blackburn was fined $10 yesterday for driving on the wrong side of the road after his car was in collision with another vehicle at Wall and Bradley.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts will recommend that a telephone pole be moved to afford drivers approaching the intersection better visibility.

A silver spoon with an Ayrshire emblem was also presented Mr. Nissen from the B.C. Ayrshire club.

LAKE COWICHAN — Officers of the Lake Cowichan AOTS Club are Jack Irving, president; Hugh Roberston, vice-president; Ray Lang, secretary, and Oscar Winquist, treasurer.

Norm Carter, Duncan president, and Ed Hess, Chemainus, V.I. District Council president, were installing officers.

The retiring president, Norm Webb, said the annual Nut Drive was the most reliable source of income, and praised George Blewett, Honeymoon Bay, for selling 864 boxes single-handed, believed to be a B.C. record among AOTS clubs.

CHEMAINUS — Work was started this week on the driving of the piles for the ferry slip at the Chemainus end, for the new Thetis Island-Crofton ferry.

Fraser Pile Driving Company, with a crew of six men and a mobile crane brought in on a scow, with leads and pile driver hammer, are doing the work.

The ferry slip has also to be put in at Preedy Harbor, Thetis Island, the home port of the ferry, which will be tied up there when not in use.

There has been no word from Somas Shipyards, Alberni as to when the delivery of the ferry will be made here. In December they stated it would be ready for delivery in late January.

Briggs was appointed as the village representative to the Vancouver Island Regional Library Board and Arthur H. Butler as representative to the Vancouver Island Board of Health.

PORT ALBERNI — This district's semi-annual Red Cross blood donor clinic went over the quota with six pints to spare.

The clinic, convened by Mrs. F. G. Weaver, closed at 9 p.m. Wednesday, with 606 pints donated to the province's blood bank.

An appeal on the second day of the two-day clinic brought over 140 donors of "O" type to overcome a shortage in Vancouver where some operations were being deferred waiting for an adequate supply.

Jaycees of the Albernis were responsible for advertising and transportation for the clinic.

Mrs. Weaver expressed her satisfaction in results of the drive and in co-operation given by Jaycees and other organizations. She reported that Wednesday afternoon, in spite of adverse driving conditions and with snow still falling, was the "biggest" afternoon in the 13 years since donor clinics were organized here.

A donation of $300 has been given to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society by the Nanaimo Club, Associated Canadian Travellers, to establish a bursary for a Vancouver Island girl to train as a physiotherapist in Edmonton, Alberta.

Miss Mary Pack, executive secretary for the B.C. Division of C.A.R.S., said absence of a physiotherapy training school in B.C. and the fact there are only four schools of physiotherapy in Canada has resulted in a shortage of therapists.

Anyone wishing to follow this profession and take up the bursary supplied by the Associated Canadian Travellers should contact the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society in Vancouver.

Applicants should be of senior matriculation or first year university standard, with a Grade 12 standing in subjects required for admission to B.Sc. course in the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Shuffle to Split Health Branch

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A reorganization of the provincial department of health and welfare and mental health services was called for in the Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at yesterday's legislature opening.

The move, first predicted in The Daily Colonist Jan. 1, calls for a new department of health services and hospital insurance to combine services now rendered by mental health services under the provincial secretary with the health branch and hospital insurance service now under the health and welfare department.

The welfare branch will now become a separate department.

NEW MINISTER

It can be assumed that this will call for a new cabinet minister, with Eric Martin continuing as health branch and hospital insurance minister and the new minister directing the new welfare department.

Thought to be a possible candidate for the new minister's post is Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt), who is the Social Credit caucus leader, convention chairman and sparkplug of political campaigns for the Socreds.

The throne speech said definitely that a start will be made this year on Victoria's new courthouse. The Colonist said Jan. 1 that the long-awaited $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 courthouse would be started in October as a winter work program, but completion will not be until 1960.

CBC Ultimatum:

Back to Work Or Be Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — The publicly-owned CBC Thursday gave roughly 1,200 of its Montreal employees supporting the television producers' strike the choice of returning to work or losing their jobs.

The ultimatum was contained in letters sent to all staff members who have not reported for work since the Montreal producers walked off their jobs Dec. 29 to back demands for recognition of their newly-formed Association des Realisateurs (CCL) as a bargaining agent.

Corporation officials told a press conference late Thursday the CBC will start hiring personnel to fill vacancies created by those who do not return to work.

The corporation also said it will refuse to have any further dealings with the producers' association in its efforts to restore normal television broadcasting services in Montreal.

Can't Get Both

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday told labor that it "can't have it both ways." Delegates of the Canadian Labor Congress had asked him for increased government social security measures and reduced taxes at the same time.

Lipstick Tax 'Unfair'

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the three women members of the Commons today urged removal of the 10 per cent federal excise tax on lipstick, shaving cream, toothpaste, baby oils and other cosmetics.

"Lipstick is not a luxury," said Margaret Aitken (P.C., York-Humber) in the Commons throne speech debate. "Half the electors of this country agree with me."

She described the tax on cosmetics as "discriminatory," "unfair" and "incongruous." The excise tax had been removed a few years ago from such items as fishing rods, cameras and soft drinks.

Another Baby Kidnapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — A woman volunteering to act as a baby-sitter for a 23-day-old boy kidnapped him after sending the infant's mother on a wild goose chase for an apartment, police reported last night.

It was the big city's second infant kidnapping this month.

Police were seeking Gladys Garcia, who met Mrs. Dora Liza Tavarez Thursday afternoon at the Metropolitan Hospital clinic.

Mrs. Tavarez, who had gone to the clinic for post-natal care, said the woman she had just met told her that she was expecting a child and that "she loved children."

Mrs. Tavarez, 31, offered the woman a ride to her apartment in a taxi. There, the Garcia woman commented on how small the Tavarez apartment was and said she knew of a larger apartment available in the Bronx.

She offered to care for the baby while the mother went to see it.

Mrs. Tavarez discovered that the address she had been given was that of a post office.

The mother hurried home, arriving there about 4 p.m. Both the woman and her son were missing.

The woman and her neighbors searched the neighborhood for hours before reporting to police shortly after 10 p.m. After still another search, police turned in a kidnapping alarm.

Detectives were checking hospital records for a lead to the Garcia woman. Their task was complicated by the fact that the clinic listed 10 Garcia women undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Tavarez had been in this country about two years, arriving here from the Dominican Republic.

Reds Lack The Big One

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Thursday that Russia does not have an intercontinental ballistic missile it could fire against the United States.

Final Weapon Study Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clinton P. Anderson called Thursday for high-priority study of weather control. He called it "the ultimate weapon" which could be used to "bring the United States to her knees."

Fishboat Turns Away From Drowning Woman

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman was drowned before help could reach her in West Bay Thursday.

Dead is Mrs. Dorothy Wyndham, 66.

R. H. Ferguson said he hailed a passing fishboat after he spotted Mrs. Wyndham about 50 yards offshore, swimming and calling for help. He said the fishboat veered in toward shore, then turned and sped away.

Here's Where New Breakwater Will Rise This Year

Happy news for both owners of small boats and Oak Bay came with Ottawa announcement last night that $200,000 will be spent this year on Turkey Head breakwater, to extend most of way between Oak Bay seashore and Mary Tod Island. Breakwater has long been sought as shelter for small craft using Oak Bay Boathouse. "This is a great thing for small boat owners," said Reeve George Murdoch, "and also for our seawall which gets knocked around in those southeast gales. The government has been very generous." (Colonist photo.)
